Bill King II
Director of Publicity

To the Media:

The Milwaukee Bucks would like to welcome members of the media to the Milwaukee Arena. Our entire organization has an appreciation for your efforts and aims and will assist you in any way possible. In return, the coverage the media has afforded us throughout our years in the NBA has been superb and we appreciate your dedication. The following are some of the services we will provide and some of the things we ask of you to help us run our operation smoothly.

* Individual game credentials should be requested the day before the game, 5 p.m. Friday for Saturday and Sunday games, or noon the day of Monday games. Pre-arranged credentials may be picked up at the will-call window in the southwest corner of the Arena just off the Kilbourn Street entrance. Credentials are good for admittance to the Arena, Press Room, and home and visiting locker rooms. Media members holding Bucks' season passes should notify this office of their intentions to cover a game in order to reserve seating on the press table. All press seating in the Milwaukee Arena is on court level.

* The press room is located on court level in the northeast corner of the Arena. The room opens 1½ hours before the game and again at halftime and following the game. Secure storage of typewriters, coats, and the like is available. We must limit press room usage to members of the media only when valid Bucks' press passes are presented. It is impossible to accommodate family members, friends, guests, or others. The professional intent of the room is to provide a meeting and working place for bonafide writers, reporters, broadcasters, and game personnel.

* Both the Bucks' and visitors' locker rooms will be open up to 45 minutes before game time and ten minutes after the game. Your cooperation is asked in maintaining a work atmosphere in the locker rooms for post-game interviews. Those newspapers with morning deadlines and TV stations doing live spots should be given preference in obtaining players and coaches. Basically, common courtesy should prevail.

* Special instructions for all cameramen can be found on the back of the season photo passes and on the envelopes in which the single game passes are issued.

* Pre-game press notes, lineup and scoring sheets, and the current program insert will be available in the Press Room before the game. Programs will be available on a limited basis. Play-by-play, quarter stats, and half-time box scores will be delivered directly to the press table. Please keep sets quarter-by-quarter. A limited number of play-by-play sheets and halftime boxes will be available in the Press Room after the game. Complete final boxes and fourth quarter play-by-plays will be available after the game in the Press Room.

* The Bucks provide complimentary telecopier service at every home game. Jim Grayson operates the service. Special arrangements to file off day stories or the like can be made through the Bucks publicity office. Any writers who need to rent video relay terminals to file stories, should contact the Bucks publicity office at least one week in advance of the game to secure arrangements.

Cordially,
Bill King II

1985-86 SCHEDULE FORMAT

The NBA will celebrate their 40th anniversary this season. The 943-game NBA schedule will run 171 days, the same length as the previous five seasons, and will conclude on Sunday, April 13. The schedule contains several significant improvements, including no team playing a day game following a game the previous night, and no team being required to play games on three consecutive days.

The 1985-86 schedule also shows fewer instances of teams playing four games in five nights than in previous seasons. Other improvements include more games being scheduled on two Monday holidays during the season; Martin Luther King Day on January 20 (Bucks at Atlanta) and Presidents Day on February 18 (Bucks at Philadelphia). Also, all games scheduled for the month of April are between teams in the same conference so as to heighten their impact on playoff races.

Another highlight of the 1985-86 campaign will be the 36th Annual NBA All-Star game, which will be played at Reunion Arena in Dallas on Sunday afternoon, February 9, starting at 12:30 pm local time, and will be televised live by CBS Sports.

The longest homestand of the season for the Bucks encompasses a four game stretch and occurs twice. The first is January 10 through the 19th and the second is March 18 through the 25th. The schedule calls for the Bucks to play at home on 17 weekend dates including six Fridays, nine Saturdays, and two Sundays. In addition there are three home Monday games, eleven Tuesday dates, four Wednesdays, and six Thursdays. The general rule of thumb for game times in the Milwaukee Arena is: Sunday through Thursday 7:30 pm, Fridays and Saturdays 8:00 pm. The exceptions are four 7 pm tipoff times to accommodate a possible national cable telecast by superstation WTBS. Those dates are Friday, November 15; Tuesday, December 10; Monday, January 17; and Monday, March 3.

In the friendly confines of the Milwaukee Arena, the Bucks have won nearly 75% of their games in the seventeen year history of the franchise.

The longest road skein of the season encompasses seven games and occurs once during the season. The extended road trip begins January 20 at Atlanta and includes stops at Indianapolis and New York before heading west to Utah, Los Angeles vs. the Lakers, Golden State, and Denver. Milwaukee will close the regular season Saturday, April 12 against Patrick Ewing and the New York Knickerbockers in the Arena.

The home/road split of games is fairly well balanced except for the month of November. By months the Bucks split their schedule at; October, 2 home and 2 road; November 6 home and 10 road; December, 8 home and 6 road; January, 6 home and 8 road; February, 6 home and 6 road; March, 9 home and 6 road; and April, 4 home and 3 road.

The lone Milwaukee Arena appearance by the NBA World Champion Los Angeles Lakers will be Wednesday, December 18. The NBA's top collegiate pick, Georgetown's Patrick Ewing, will make his Milwaukee debut Saturday, January 4 with the New York Knickerbockers and return on March 3 and April 12. Ewing's teammate and NBA scoring champion Bernard King is seeking to return to the hardwood this season after a devastating knee injury late in the 1984-85 regular season. Larry Bird, the back-to-back winner of the NBA's Most Valuable Player Award, will visit Milwaukee with the Eastern Conference Champion Boston Celtics December 3, February 4, and April 8.

Milwaukee will celebrate Turkey Day with a game on Thanksgiving eve on Wednesday, November 27 vs. the Atlanta Hawks and a game on Saturday, November 30 vs. the Indiana Pacers. The Bucks will also play at home the day after Christmas against the Indiana Pacers.

With the addition of the NBA's 23rd franchise, the Dallas Mavericks, five seasons ago, and the subsequent restructuring of the League by division and conference, the Bucks will face their eleven Eastern Conference opponents six times each (except two clubs). Milwaukee will play their Western Conference rivals just twice. The home/road appearances vs. each club will be divided in half.

The Mississippi River is the dividing line separating the Eastern and Western Conferences. In order to determine which teams would play uneven amounts of games against teams within their own conference, the schedule was prepared by assigning teams within a division numbers one through five or one through six. Blind draws were held to assign a team the schedule which corresponds to the number it selected. Milwaukee drew uneven games against Philadelphia (who will visit Milwaukee twice) while the Bucks will play in the Boston Garden against the Celtics two times.

Only the Kansas City Kings and Seattle SuperSonics have shifted their home courts. The Kings franchise relocated from Kansas City to Sacramento where they will remain in the Midwest Division for at least this coming season. The Kings will be housed in the Arco Arena, a temporary facility in Sacramento. The Sonics have shifted their home games from the Kingdome to the Seattle Center Coliseum, which had been their home prior to the 1978-79 season.

The current schedule format was adopted by a vote of the NBA Board of Governors the summer of 1979. The schedule is similar to that of the past six seasons when the format was designed to enhance intra-conference rivalries and save on travel expenses. Thus the Bucks remain in the Eastern Conference for the sixth consecutive year having entered the NBA in 1968 in the east (Phoenix entered the west the same time) and switching to the Western Conference for a short period in between. There were no division realignments realignments made for 1985-86.

NBA PLAYOFF FORMAT

A total of 16 teams qualify for the NBA Playoffs, the four division winners and the next six teams in each conference according to their won-lost record, regardless of division. The First Round is best-of-5 and each succeding round, including the NBA World Championship Series, is best-of-7.

In every series the home-court advantage in the extra game goes to the team with the better record during the regular season, regardless of its standing in the division race. Thus, if a division winner plays a second-place team from another division that had a better record, the second-place team would get the home-court advantage.

In determining the playoff matchups, the eight qualifiers are ranked Teams 3 through 8 according to their records. The playoff pairings for the First Round are Team 1-8, 2-7, 3-6 and 4-5 in each conference. In the Conference Semifinals, the winner of Team 1-8 plays the winner of Team 4-5 and the winner of Team 2-7 plays the winner of Team 3-6.

The World Championship Series will be played on a 2-3-2 basis, the team with the better regular-season record getting the home-court advantage for the first and last two games. Other best-of-7 series are 2-2-1-1-1.

Some portions of the playoff format were revised in June of 1983 in a vote by the NBA Board of Governors and starting with the 1984 Playoffs. The major revisions include allowance for sixteen teams qualifying for the playoffs and the elimination of the first round bye (formerly known as the best-of-3 mini-series) for division winners and inclusion of the First Round best-of-5 series.

Western Conference Eastern Conference

Note: Team 1 in each conference is the division winner with the better record, Team 2 is the other division winner and Teams 3-8 are ranked according to their regular-season winning percentage.

TIE-BREAKING PROCEDURE FOR PLAYOFFS

Following is the tie-breaking procedure that is used to determine teams qualifying for the 1985 NBA Playoffs.

Two team ties:

1. Results of games against each other.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential in games against each other.
6. Point differential between offense and defense.

Multiple team ties:

1. Cumulative winning percentge in total games involving all tied teams.
2. Winning percentage within own conference.
3. Winning percentage within own division (only if tied teams are in same division).
4. Winning percentage against playoff opponents in own conference.
5. Point differential between offense and defense.

Notes:

1. Any ties involving the championship of a division are broken first.
2. If a multiple-team tie is reduced to a two-team tie at any point using the above criteria, that situation is then resolved by using the procedures outlined for two team ties.

Magic Number:

To determine the magic number add together the total games remaining for both clubs, divide by two, and subtract the number of games one club leads another by. That figure is for a tie, add one and you get the magic number.

BROADCAST INFORMATION

Radio broadcasts of all Milwaukee Bucks home and away games are originated by WTMJ, Milwaukee's NBC radio affiliate at 620 on the AM dial. Games are fed to a statewide network of over 25 stations throughout Wisconsin.

Jim Irwin is the "Voice of the Bucks" and is joined courtside for 41 home games by Jon McGlocklin for color commentary.

The Milwaukee Bucks and WVTV-Channel 18 will televise 30 road games back to Milwaukee on WVTV-Channel 18 during the 1985-86 and 1986-87 season. The Bucks are currently in the first year of a three year agreement with WVTV. The pact gives WVTV the rights to thirty Bucks regular season road games and as many Bucks playoff games as are available during each of the first two years of the contract. The number of regular season road telecasts and playoff games to be aired by the station during the third year of the agreement (1987-88) will be determined by the Bucks following the 1986-87 campaign. WVTV will continue to hold exclusive over-the-air television rights for Bucks games during that season.

BUCKS SUMMER BASKETBALL CAMPS
Ron Blomberg — Director

There were several changes at the Milwaukee Bucks Summer Basketball Camps during the past year, including the first absence of long-time hoop mentor Ron Blomberg.

The camps continued despite Blomberg's one year hiatus and a switch in sponsorship from Medalist Industries to MacGregor Sporting Goods, who purchased Medalist's sports education division.

Jerry Sullivan, who has been Blomberg's assistant since the first Bucks camp in 1969, ran the 39 sessions with the help of 650 staff people, almost all volunteers. Blomberg decided to spend the year in Saudi Arabia teaching the fine points of the game to military men in the capitol city of Riyadh.

Notable help was also received from Milwaukee Bucks Paul Mokeski and Craig Hodges, and former Bucks Junior Bridgeman, Quinn Buckner and Mike Dunleavy.

It was a positive experience for the eight to 19 year old players as well as the coaches, "who like to share ideas with other coaches," explains Sullivan.

Sullivan himself is in his 27th year of teaching round ball, mostly at the high school level. He retired from coaching at South Milwaukee in 1976 after leading his team to the state championship. He still teaches social studies there, however.

Some of you may remember that team's star player — Kurt Nimphius, who is now a forward-center with the Dallas Mavericks. He was a graduate of those Bucks camps back then. Other alumni include Glenn Rivers, of the Atlanta Hawks by way of Marquette University, Jeff Webb, a Milwaukee-area product who starred at Kansas State, and Racine's Robert Barnes, who will attend the University of Wisconsin-Whitewater this year after a season with UW-Madison.

Sullivan said he is ready to resume his role as second in command when Blomberg takes over again next summer, but he enjoyed his brief stint as the head man.

There were more than 3,700 campers in attendance last summer. Five sessions were held at Alma, Mich., four at Knox College, in Galesburg, Ill., three sessions at UW-Whitewater, one at Wayland Academy in Beaver Dan and five at Carroll College in Waukesha.

Day camps were held throughout the state, at Salem Central High School, Cudahy High School, the University School, Princeville High School in Illinois, and in Whitefish Bay.

The players who attend are placed into their age groups, although some shuffling based on size and talent is also done. Sullivan said there are usually 12-15 campers per group during instructional sessions, where traditional basketball drills are executed under watchful eyes of area volunteer coaches.

"Then there is play and competition where kids are placed on teams, based on their ability," Sullivan said. "We are trying to improve every phase of their game."

For those parents interested in sending their children to the reasonable priced camps, they can call 786-0366 in the Milwaukee area and 1-800-633-2823 outside the Metroplan region.

"Many of these kids are getting a new and beneficial experience," said Sullivan of the camps. "Also, for many, this is the first experience away from home. They get to meet a whole new group of friends."

Basketball is the bond that both the young and old participants have in common.

MILWAUKEE BUCKS FILM LIBRARY AND SPEAKERS BUREAU

The Milwaukee Bucks have an extensive film library available for your school, church, civic or special interest group. Topics of the films range from highlight films of the Bucks, All-Star game highlights and the NBA World Championship Playoff highlights.

The Milwaukee Bucks speakers bureau has front office personnel, members of the coaching staff and players available for speaking engagements. The availability of a coach or player depends upon team commitments pertaining to games and practice schedules. There is a minimum fee of $250 for a player or coach. For complete information contact the Bucks at 414/272-6030.

If you'd like to have a film for a presentation at your school or meeting, simply drop a line on your group's letterhead to Bill King II, Publicity Director, Milwaukee Bucks, 901 North Fourth Street, Milwaukee, WI 53203. The letter should request the film or films (maximum of two (2) films at one time) with alternate choices and a preferred date for viewing along with a backup date. A deposit check payable to the Milwaukee Bucks in the amount of $25 for each film should be included with the letter. The check will be returned upon receipt of the film or films in good condition. All films are 16 mm with full color and sound. The projector and screen are not included. Films must be picked up and returned to the Bucks' office at 901 North Fourth Street, Milwaukee, WI unless other arrangements are made. Requests must be made a minimum of two weeks in advance. The Bucks have the following films available in their library:

- "SOMETHING TO PROVE" — highlights of the world championship playoff series between the Los Angeles Lakers and Philadelphia 76ers — approximately 30 minutes.

MECCA'S GEOMETRIC COURT
Designed by Robert Indiana

The design on the court you see before you was developed by Robert Indiana. Indiana has said of himself, "I am an American painter of signs charting the course. I would be a people's painter as well as a painter's painter."

Succinctly he has explained his aims, and at the same time the reasons for his success, of which there can be no doubt. Since his first art show in 1960, Mr. Indiana's art has been seen and acclaimed internationally. The floor design along with LeRoy Nieman's "Basketball Superstars" painting for the 1977 All-Star Game in Milwaukee is the second major piece of art nationally recognized to have originated from Milwaukee.

Robert Indiana has established a lasting reputation as an artist who paints America. He paints about his country, its people, and about himself; as well as about the traditions and cultures we all know. Because his art speaks of the nature of our land and the American people, Robert Indiana is destined to be among the great American masters such as Winslow Homer, Thomas Eakins, and Edward Hooper.

Indiana is one of the leaders of the Pop Art movement of the 1960's and 70's. The trademarks of his art are the lettered signs, directional symbols, commercial illustrations, precise shapes, and intensely active colors. His art has been referred to as American as apple pie. He deals with signs of life in both vocabulary and form. Like highway signs, his paintings are geometric shapes with bright, bold numbers and letters upon them. LOVE is perhaps his most famous series of paintings.

Claiming the same hometown as former Buck Kent Benson in New Castle, Indiana, Mr. Indiana's works are on display accross the country, and such institutions as the Carnegie Institute of Arts in Pittsburgh, the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art, the Metroplitan Museum of Art in New York City, Yale and Princeton Universities, and the Milwaukee Art Center all own works by Indiana. Previously Indiana has been commissioned to redesign the U.S. one cent piece by ART IN AMERICA, to create a mural for the New York State Pavilion at the New York World's Fair, and by the United States Government to design a Special Stamp for Someone Special in the denomination of 8 cents and issued originally in Philadelphia in 1973 to name a few prominent works.

Robert Indiana has lived and worked in New York since 1954.

The court itself is the same that has been in use during past seasons. Before being painted, it was completely refinished and sealed. Indiana signed the court of the southwest corner with a can of spray paint and a specially prepared stencil. Mr. Indiana also designed the banners that hang above the upper parquet around the Arena. The colors will also be picked up in the outer lobbies as MECCA plans to refurbish those facilities. Total cost of the project approaches $40,000 with a portion of that to be recouped by the sale of banners and posters similar to those in the Arena.

BUCKS HISTORY

Kareem and Commissioner Kennedy

On October 16, 1968, before a crowd of 8,467 at the Milwaukee Arena, the Milwaukee Bucks made their National Basketball Association debut. The Chicago Bulls, however, won 89-84. The Bucks first win came in their sixth game, a 134-118 victory over Detroit on October 31, 1968. The Bucks went on to win 27 games and lose 55 in their first season, but set a home attendance record for a first year team, averaging 6,246 fans at the Arena. Guard Jon McGlocklin led the team in scoring with a 19.6 average; forward Greg Smith was the leading rebounder, and guard Guy Rodgers was the playmaker.

The Bucks last place finish in the East Division and the last place finish in the West by the other expansion team, the Phoenix Suns, qualified the two teams for a coin flip to determine rights to the number one choice in the college draft. On March 19, 1969, NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy flipped the coin. Phoenix chose heads, the coin came up tails, and on April 2, 1969 the Bucks signed 7-2 Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of UCLA.

Abdul-Jabbar became an instant superstar, teaming with McGlocklin, Smith, rookie Bob Dandridge and Flynn Robinson in leading the Bucks from the cellar spot to a runner-up place in the East. The Bucks won 56 and lost 26 that year and then defeated the Philadelphia 76ers in five games. 360,650 fans watched the Bucks at the Milwaukee Arena, an average of 9,490 per game. Following the season, the Bucks made ther biggest trade — getting All-Pro Guard Oscar Robertson from Cincinnati for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk. Just prior to the start of the 1970-71 season, Bob Boozer and Lucius Allen were acquired from Seattle for Don Smith.

With Kareem, Robertson, McGlocklin, Dandridge and Smith forming the starting five and Boozer, Allen and Dick Cunningham providing backup, the Bucks ran away with the Midwest Division in the newly aligned four division league setup. The Bucks won 66 and lost only 16 games, in the process setting six league records; home wins, 34; road wins, 28; field goal percentage, .509; field goals, 3972; and assists, 2249. In playoff competition the Bucks dispatched San Francisco and Los Angeles in five game series and then blasted Baltimore four straight for the World's Championship, only the second time in league history that the title series ended so quickly. In winning the World's Championship, the Bucks had come further, faster, than any expansion team in the history of major professional sports.

Abdul-Jabbar

In 1971-72 the Bucks made the playoffs for the third straight year, winning the Midwest Division for the second year in a row. The Bucks elevated Wayne Embry to the general manager post and named William Alverson, a legal advisor to the club since its beginning, president in March, 1972.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar earned the league's MVP honor for the second straight year, averaging 34.8 points per game and leading the NBA in that department. The Bucks found defense of their World Championship title difficult. The Bucks disposed of Golden State in five games. The "super series" for the Western Conference championship matched the Bucks against the Los Angeles Lakers, a contingent that had run a 33 game winning streak during the season before being derailed by the Bucks on January 9. The Bucks battled the Lakers in six exciting games before falling four games to two.

Kareem and Big O

The Bucks completed the 1972-73 season with a 60-22 record, the only NBA team in history to post sixty or more wins in three consecutive seasons. The sixty wins were posted despite an unusual season which found the Bucks plagued by injuries. Coach Larry Costello had his full roster available for barely more than half of the 82 game schedule. The Bucks finished the year with an NBA record of 14 straight victories to end the season, and entered the first round of the playoffs against Golden State. Possibly wearied by the whirlwind of winning the 14 games and the final race with the Lakers for the Western Conference title, the Bucks were surprised by a deep Golden State Team, and fell 4-2 in the opening round.

The Bucks were one game short of their fourth consecutive season with 60 regular season wins or more in 1973-74, finishing the season with a 59-23 record. Numerous injuries during the season often put the Bucks in a manpower shortage situation, but the club rallied to offset the absence of various players at different times of the year. The most serious injury sidelined Lucius Allen for the last few games of the season and all of the playoffs. Allen tore a cartilage in his knee in a game March 15 in Detroit, and underwent surgery the following day. The Bucks again topped the Midwest Division and eliminated Los Angeles 4-1 in the playoffs and dispatched Chicago without delay 4-0. In the championship round against Boston, the Bucks faced a troublesome press that continually dogged their game. The series was highlighted by a double-overtime sixth game which the Bucks won in Boston, to knot the series at 3-3. In the NBA Championship round's final seventh game, the Bucks were defeated by the Celts 102-87.

In 1974-75 the Bucks endured what might have been their most frustrating season on record. A pre-season broken hand kept Kareem Abdul-Jabbar sidelined for the first sixteen games of the season and the club was 3-13, putting themselves too far behind Midwest Division rivals to ever recover. A mid-season knee injury to All Star guard Jim Price sidelined him for the last half of the season. Kareem, Price and Bob Dandridge were named to the All Star team, the first time in club history that three members had been named to the honor squad. Although the Costello trademark of defense was upheld (the club's allowance of 100.7 points per game was the fifth best in the league), their 38-44 record put them in last place in the Midwest Division. The club's longest winning streak of the year was five games, and the team stayed in contention for the wild card playoff berth until the last week of the season. The Bucks lost 18 games during this fretful year by five points or less, and 11 of those losses were by three points or fewer. Kareem was third in the NBA in scoring while Bob Dandridge finished 18th with a 19.9 point per game clip.

On June 16, 1975 the Bucks executed one of the most momentous trades in pro basketball history by sending Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and reserve center Walt Welsey to the Los Angeles Lakers in exchange for center Elmore Smith, guard Brian Winters, and two All-American rookies, David Meyers and Junior Bridgeman. The Milwaukee Bucks entered the 1975-76 season with a new, young running team, perhaps the youngest in the NBA.

The young talent faltered at first, losing the first five games of the season before posting a win over Detroit on November 4, 1975. As the season progressed, all four players obtained from Los Angeles for Abdul-Jabbar proved to make important contributions. Smith became a consistent performer at center, leading the team in rebounding during the season with a 11.4 per game average. Brian Winters put his marksmanship to work to average over 18 points per game and make the NBA West All Stars. Winters started in all 78 games he played. Bridgeman played both guard and forward well, started in 19 games and averaged over 20 minutes per game. Meyers showed outstanding rebounding potential, banging the boards hard in 34 starts at the strong forward slot. Slowed by a knee injury, he rallied to have an outstanding playoff series against Detroit.

The Bucks posted a 38-44 record in 1975-76, identical to that achieved by the Los Angeles Lakers and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. Bob Dandridge was named to the NBA West All Stars and had his best season ever, averaging 21.5 points per game while ranking among the top ten scorers in the league. The Bucks finished first in the Midwest Division for the fifth time in eight seasons. The Milwaukeeans were beat in the first round of the best-of-three playoff series 2-1 by Detroit. Coach Larry Costello signed a new two year pact just prior to the playoffs. In the 1976 college draft the Bucks selected Indiana All American and U.S. Olympian Quinn Buckner in the first round.

Bob Dandridge

The 1976-77 season saw a major shakeup within the organization. Just 18 games into the season Larry Costello resigned as Head Coach and Don Nelson took over the reigns. Other changes came about involving the club's management structure. A group headed by James F. Fitzgerald, William J. Blake and J. P. Cullen and Son Corporation purchased 361,000 outstanding shares of Milwaukee Professional Sports and Services common stock. Mr. Fitzgerald became Chairman of the Board and President of the corporation. Wayne Embry, formerly General Manager of the club, became a consultant thus relinquishing his duties on a day-to-day basis. What were formerly Embry's duties were then split between Don Nelson who handles player personnel matters and John Steinmiller who was promoted to Director of Business Operations in charge of the day-to-day functions of the club. On the court Bob Dandridge turned in a solid performance averaging 20.8 points over the season. Brian Winters and Junior Bridgeman also averaged in double figures as did Swen Nater who was traded to Cleveland which gave Milwaukee the first round draft choice they used to obtain Marques Johnson. Record-wise the 1976-77 season was a meager 30 wins against 52 losses. But to offset that mark was perhaps the best draft by any professional team in history. Behind the direction of Rick Sund, Don Nelson, and Wayne Embry the club drafted and subsequently signed three first round choices in Kent Benson, Marques Johnson, and Ernie Grunfeld. John Killilea, once a scout for the Bucks and more recently assistant coach of the Boston Celtics, joined Don Nelson in the coaching ranks as assistant coach and assistant Director of Player Personnel.

The 1977-78 season parlayed an exceptional draft of Benson, Johnson, and Grunfeld along with veterans Bridgeman, Buckner, Meyers, and Winters into an exciting season for a young team that as of yet did not have valuable playoff experience. Milwaukee finished the regular season with a 44-38 record. The fate of the playoff hopeful Bucks hinged upon Seattle beating Golden State on the final game of the 902 game NBA regular season schedule. The scene was a frustrating one for the Bucks as players, coaches, and fans alike stood anxiously by listening to the radio for a special play-by-play feed of the Sonics-Warriors game. Everyone felt helpless as their fate rested with a game they weren't playing. Seattle defeated Golden State sending the Bucks to pack the bathing suits in Milwaukee to head for Phoenix. Milwaukee swept the Suns 2-0 in the mini-series advancing to the Midwest Division final. It took Denver a tough seven games and the home court advantage to defeat Milwaukee and end a championship dream for the "Green and Growing" Bucks.

The image the Bucks created that year was one of youth and hope. The first full season under Don Nelson saw some changes, not all of which were on the court. The Bucks adopted their new familiar three-toned green striping on their uniforms and other paraphenalia, came out with a 45 record entitled Green and Growing, and numerous other exciting concepts. The result of all this could be felt at the gate where the Bucks averaged 10,711. 15 fans (.97012%) to top their all time attendance records. Also that year the Bucks set an all time NBA record winning eight overtime games.

In the next season, 1978-79, everyone expected Milwaukee to surpass their successes of the previous year. What with the core of the 1977-78 team intact, it was an easy assumption to make. But before the season began a vital cog on the Bucks club was lost. Alex English went to the Indiana Pacers via the free agent market. Then Dave Meyers was lost for all 82 games of the regular season due to a back injury. Those losses coupled with a few key injuries, saw the Bucks reversing their 44-38 record of the previous year to 38-44 and missing a playoff berth.

There were some bright spots however. Marques Johnson was named to the NBA All-Star team receiving more fan votes than any other player in the Western Conference. Later, Johnson was named to the NBA All-League team as a first team forward. Marques finished third in the NBA in scoring with a 25.6 average which was highest among all forwards and centers in the league. Junior Bridgeman finished the season with a 15.5 average, tops among all regular sixth men in the league. Kent Benson improved greatly over his rookie campaign while Brian Winters had his best scoring season ever. The Bucks 38-44 record placed them tied at third with Indiana in the Midwest Division. The club came on strong towards the end and won 16 of their last 26 games (.615%) including 6 wins in their last 9 road games. Milwaukee also shattered the NBA assist record with 2,562 on the year for a 31.2 average. The total attendance mark of 443,926 broke all the records set one season before. The marks include 32 sellouts, an average of 10,827, and a capacity of 99%.

The Bucks rebounded with another Midwest Divison title during the 1979-80 campaign, posting a 49-33 record to squeeze out the Kansas City Kings by two games. The title qualified Milwaukee for its eighth playoff appearance in the club's twelve year history. It was a season of highs and lows as the Bucks sprinted to an early lead with an NBA high of ten consecutive victories only to lose six straight in December to close the cushion. Compounding the losing skid was the sidelining of Quinn Buckner with a recurring hamstring problem. By January the division lead swayed to Kansas City.

The All-Star break, highlighted by Marques Johnson's second straight starting role for the West squad, marked a turnaround for Milwaukee as Detroit dealt big Bob Lanier to the Bucks for Kent Benson and a number one draft choice. Lanier's inside scoring punch combined with Marques Johnson's outside touch vaulted the club into the winner's circle in 11 of the next 13 contests. All tolled, the club went 20-6 following the break and reclaimed the division lead for good in mid-March. Defense played a major role in that comeback, forcing the second place Kings into an NBA season low 72 points February 24 and Golden State into a League low third quarter total of 10 points March 8.

Milwaukee drew defending champion Seattle in the playoffs, eventually falling in the seventh and final contest at the Kingdome. The series was marked by an NBA record crowd (40, 172) in Game #5 and a Bucks' record-low first half point production (35) in Game #6. Games #1 and #2 were both highlighted by overtime play, the clubs each taking one contest. Seattle went on to play the eventual NBA champion Los Angeles Lakers for the Western Conference Championship.

The Bucks finished the 1980-81 season with a 60-22 record to become the 19th team in the history of the NBA to reach the magical 60 win plateau. It marked the fourth time in 13 seasons the club won 60 or more games. That record was attained by matching the club record for home court wins set during the championship year of 1970-71 with a 34-7 mark. On the road the club posted a 25-16 record, the best in eight seasons by Milwaukee and second to Boston in 1980-81. Also, Milwaukee became the 17th team in NBA history to lose no more than two games consecutively. Streaks were common for the team during the season. They ran off 10 in a row early in the season, 11 straight road games, and 16 in a row in the Arena. Also on the numbers front, the Bucks averaged 113.1 ppg — tops in the Eastern Conference — and allowed 105.9 ppg for an average margin of victory of 7.2 points per game. By virtue of their 60-22 record, the Bucks ran away with the Central Division title while earning a first round playoff bye.

Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs. For the Bucks it proved to be a virtual replay of previous playoff series under the Nelson regime. The club again was without the home court advantage and lost in the seventh game of the series to Philadelphia in the Spectrum by one point.

The Bucks captured their third straight division title ending the 1981-82 season with a 55-27 mark to top the Central Division. It marked the second straight Central Division title and third consecutive division title. It was also the second straight year Milwaukee posted the largest season-ending division lead in the NBA (13 games). To have such a successful season, Milwaukee had to overcome such adversities as an 18 game holdout by All-Star Marques Johnson at the start of the season and weather the storm of 114 player games missed due to injury necessitating 15 different starting lineups. Sidney Moncrief was unwrapped and his performance landed him a berth on the All-Star squad. Center Bob Lanier played in all but eight games and recorded more minutes played than all but two teammates. He too was named to the All-Star squad. Statistically, Milwaukee's 5.5 ppg winning margin ranked third in the League, 102.9 points defensively was 4th in the NBA, .505 team FG% was second best of any Milwaukee team, and a mid-season skein of 12 straight set a then NBA season mark.

Again Philadelphia earned the right to meet Milwaukee in the playoffs, but his time the short-handed Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in six games. Philadelphia went on to win the Eastern Conference championship before losing to the Los Angeles Lakers for the NBA title.

A fourth straight division title and four game sweep over the Boston Celtics highlighted the 1982-83 season for Milwaukee. Although injuries created a lot of shuffling of lineups, NBA Coach of the Year Don Nelson guided the team to a 51-31 record. Sidney Moncrief was named the NBA Defensive Player of the year and also to the All-League team while leading the club with a 22.5 scoring average. Teammate Marques Johnson, named to the All-Star team along with Moncrief, was a big plus for the Bucks, hitting for 1,714 points to lead the team. Winning 31 of 41 home games, Milwaukee ranked fourth in the League defensively yielding 102.2 ppg. The club hit .489% from the floor and .753% from the line. The Bucks set a franchise record blocking 532 opponent's shots and committed an all-time low 1,421 turnovers on the season. Due to the record low number of Milwaukee turnovers, a new opponent's season low for steals of 623 was established.

After the sweep over Boston, Milwaukee faced eventual NBA Champions Philadelphia in the finals of the Eastern Conference playoffs. The Bucks could only take one win from the 76ers but that was the lone loss suffered by Philly in the playoffs. Johnson again led the way during the second season averaging 22 points per contest.

Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks win their division in 1983-84 while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Milwaukee finished the regular season 50-32 for their fourth 50+ win season in a row. Teamwise the Bucks led the League in defense allowing just 101.5 ppg while also leading the League in defensive field goal percentage (.456%). The club also set a new low water mark for turnovers (1,385 or 16.9 per game). Notable high was the 35,047 fans in the Detroit Silverdome for March 31 game with Pistons to set largest NBA regular season crowd in history.

Individually Sidney Moncrief was an NBA All-Star for the third time, was named to the Second Team All-League, the All-Defensive First Team, and was the Defensive Player of the Year for the second straight season since the inception of the award. Junior Bridgeman moved into first spot on the all-time games played list and Marques Johnson scored his 10,000th point in front of a national CBS audience.

Under the expanded playoff format the Bucks were pushed to five games before defeating Atlanta in the opening series, beat New Jersey 4-2 in the conference semi-finals, and lost to the Boston Celtics 4-1 in the Eastern Conference Finals.

The Bucks won their sixth consecutive division crown during the 1984-85 campaign by posting a 59-23 record and finishing more than a dozen games in front of runner-up Detroit. For the fifth straight season the Bucks ended with at least 50 victories while averaging 55 wins per outing over that five year span.

With Sidney Moncrief and Paul Pressey as its backbone, the Milwaukee defense led the League for the second time in a row. The Bucks allowed just 104 ppg, while scoring almost 111 themselves. The Bucks set a new club standard for home wins by recording a stellar 36-5 mark.

In the opening round of the playoffs, the Bucks defeated the upstart Chicago Bulls 3-1. Things didn't go quite as well in the Eastern Conference Semifinals where the Phildelphia 76ers swept the Bucks in four straight contests.

Major individual honors went to Cummings, Moncrief, Pressey, and Coach Don Nelson. Cummings and Moncrief were named to the mid-season All-Star classic as reserves and to the 1985 All-League Second Team. Moncrief and Pressey were named to the 1985 All-Defensive First Team, and Nelson won the 1985 NBA Coach of the Year award for the second time in three seasons.

FAMOUS FIRSTS IN BUCK HISTORY

FIRST GAME — On October 16, 1968 the Milwaukee Bucks played their first NBA game against Chicago. The Bucks were defeated 89-84 before a Milwaukee Arena crowd of 8,467. Guy Rodgers led the Bucks in scoring with 16 points.

FIRST WIN — After losing the first five games, Milwaukee responded with a 134-118 victory over Detroit at the Arena for the first win ever on October 31, 1968. Wayne Embry led the Bucks in scoring with 30 points —the first player in history to score 30 for Milwaukee.

FIRST ROAD WIN — Milwaukee's first victory on the road came on the twelfth try at San Francisco. The Bucks won 107-101 with Fred Hetzel pumping in 22 points on November 30, 1968.

FIRST SELLOUT — On February 27, 1969 the Milwaukee Bucks played before a capacity crowd at the Arena for the first time. 10,746 fans jammed the Arena to witness a 126-117 victory over Baltimore. Flynn Robinson led the way with 35 points.

FIRST WINNING SEASON — In only their second year of existence the Bucks won 56 while losing only 26.

FIRST PLAYOFF GAME — March 25, 1970. The Bucks defeated the Philadelphia 76ers at Madison 125-118 in the team's first playoff action ever. Lew Alcindor scored 36 points in the opening victory. Milwaukee went on to win the series 4 games to 1. However, they fell to the eventual NBA Champions, the New York Knickerbockers in five games.

FIRST NBA CHAMPIONSHIP — The Milwaukee Bucks had gone further, faster than any expansion team in the history of professional sports in their third season of play. In 1970-71 the Bucks won 66 and lost 16 in the regular season then went on to become the NBA Champions. They defeated Baltimore in four games in the finals.

FIRST MVP AWARD — Lew Alcindor was named the NBA's MVP following the 1970-71 season. The first Buck to win the award led the League in scoring with a 31.7 average.

FIRST DRAFT CHOICE — In the 1968 College Draft, the Bucks named Charlie Paulk of Northeastern State (Oklahoma) their first draft pick of all-time.

FIRST THREE POINT SHOT — Brian Winters canned the first three point shot for the Milwaukee Bucks on October 25, 1979. Milwaukee defeated the Clippers at San Diego 118-115 in the contest.

BUCKS LOSING STREAKS

● The last time the Bucks lost five games in a row overall was during the 1980-81 season from March 6 through the 12th. ● The last time the Bucks lost six games in a row overall was during the 1979-80 season from December 5 through the 14th. The club also dropped six in a row in the 1978-79 season from January 28 to February 8. ● In club history the highest number of consecutive losses at home is four and that occurred in five separate seasons: 1979-80 (11/27-12/11), 1977-78 (twice), 1976-77, 1974-75, and 1968-69. ● In club history the highest number of consecutive losses overall is 11 and that occurred during the 1974-75 season from Oct. 25 to Nov. 16.

MILWAUKEE BUCKS PLAYOFF HISTORY

1969-70 — The Bucks (56-26) finished second in the Eastern Division behind the 60-win New York Knickerbockers. Division Semifinals: Milwaukee beats Philadelphia 4-1 to advance to the Division finals vs. the Knicks who had beat the Baltimore Bullets 4-1. Division finals: N.Y. beats Milwaukee 4-1 and then goes on to edge Los Angeles 4-3 to become NBA champions.

1970-71 — The Bucks (66-16) finished first in the Midwest Division with the best record in the Western Conference. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee beats San Francisco 4-1 to gain the right to face Los Angeles in the Conference finals as the Lakers edge Chicago 4-3 in the other Conference semifinal. Conference Final: Milwaukee beat L.A. 4-1 and earns the right to face Eastern Conference winner Baltimore which edged the Knicks 4-3. Championship Series: Milwaukee captures its first NBA crown with a 4-0 sweep of the Bullets.

1971-72 — Milwaukee again sits atop the Midwest Division at 63-19, second best record in the Western Conference. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee beats Golden State 4-1 to advance to the Conference final vs. 69 win Los Angeles who had beaten Chicago 4-0 in the other Western Conference semifinal. Conference Final: Milwaukee is beaten by Los Angeles 4-2.

1972-73 — Bucks third straight 60 win or better season brings them their third straight Midwest Division title and ties them with L.A. for the best record in the Western Conference at 60-22. Conference Semifinals: The Bucks are ambushed by Golden State 4-2.

1973-74 — Milwaukee wins their 4th straight Midwest title at 59-23. Conference Semifinal: Milwaukee beats Los Angeles 4-1 and advances to play Chicago who defeated Detroit 4-3 in the other Western Conference semifinal. Conference Final: The Bucks beat the Bulls 4-0 and meet Eastern Conference champion Boston who had beaten New York 4-1. Championship Series: In one of the classic championship series, the Celtics beat the Bucks 4-3.

1975-76 — The Bucks top the Midwest Division (38-44) with the sixth best record in the West. Western Conference First Round: Bucks are beaten in a miniseries by Detroit 2-1.

1977-78 — Milwaukee finishes second to Denver in the Midwest at 44-38. Western Conference First Round: The Bucks surprise the favored Phoenix Suns and sweep a miniseries 2-0. Conference Semifinal: The Bucks run up against Midwest Division champ Denver and lose an exciting and hard fought series 4-3.

1979-80 — The Bucks top the Midwest Division with a 49-33 mark and get a bye in the first round of the playoffs. Conference Semifinals: Bucks meet the Supersonics who had nipped the Portland Trail Blazers 2-1 in the first round, and lose a tough, rough seven game series 4-3.

1980-81 — Bucks shift to the Eastern Conference and the Central Division and top that group with a 60-22 mark to receive a bye in the first round. Philadelphia beats Indiana 2-0 for the right to face Milwaukee in the semis. Lose to Philly 4-3 in hard fought series.

1981-82 — The Bucks top the Central Division for the second straight year posting a 55-27 record, have a bye in the first round and then meet the Philadelphia 76ers who had beaten Atlanta 2-0 in the miniseries. Conference Semifinals: Milwaukee loses to the Sixers 4-2.

1982-83 — For the third consecutive year the Bucks are kingpins of the Central Division while winning their fourth overall division crown. Regular season record of 51-31 earns the club a first round bye and time to prepare for the Boston Celtics who were eliminating Atlanta in the mini-series. Milwaukee swept Boston in four straight for the right to play eventual champion Philadelphia in the Eastern Conference finals. Bucks managed just one win in five outings vs. the Sixers but it was an accomplishment in itself as Milwaukee was the only club in the playoffs to beat Philly whose overall playoff record was 12-1.

1983-84 — Once again and for the fifth consecutive season the Bucks win their division (four in a row in the Central) while making the NBA's final four for the second straight year. Regular season record of 50-32 didn't earn a bye as they were eliminated under the expanded playoff format. Bucks defeated Atlanta 3-2 in the opening round while New Jersey was surprising defending champion Philadelphia winning all three games on the Sixers court. Milwaukee beat the Nets 4-2 and gained the Eastern Conference finals vs. Boston where they lost out 4-1. The Celtics went on to win the NBA title. Boston defeated Washington and New York before meeting up with Milwaukee.

1984-85 — The Central Division title was captured by the Bucks for the fifth straight year making the club division title holders for six consecutive seasons. Taking a 59-23 regular season mark into the playoffs, the Bucks defeated division foe Chicago 3-1. Milwaukee was blind-sided in the next round of playoffs by the Philadelphia 76ers. The Bucks succumbed to the Sixers in four straight contests marking the only time the Bucks have been swept in the playoffs.

Lanier's #16 Joins Oscar, Jonny Mac, & Winters

A fourth number has been added to the banner that hangs prominently on the Milwaukee Arena's north wall.

Bob Lanier's No. 16 was retired last season, making the Dobber the latest Buck to receive the prestigious honor of having his number preserved for posterity.

Oscar Robertson's No. 1, Jon McGlocklin's 14 and Brian Winters' 32 also hang on the banner.

Lanier, saying "I think there's another life out there," retired in September of 1984, after 14 years as one of the premier centers in the NBA.

The Dobber's statistics are impressive — a lifetime scoring average of 20.1 per game, 9,698 rebounds, eight All-Star appearances and an equal number of playoffs. Lanier was the NBA Rookie of the Year in 1971 and the All-Star Most Valuable Player in 1974.

An All-American at St. Bonaventure, Lanier played for the Detroit Pistons for 9-1/2 seasons, before joining the Bucks in the 1979-80 season. He led the Bucks to five straight playoffs before deciding to retire without the NBA championship ring.

Lanier played much of his career in pain, after undergoing no less than eight operations on his knees. Despite the discomfort, he performed well on the court and remained a nice guy off the court, working with a variety of civic and charitable organizations. For those efforts, Lanier received the Walter Kennedy Citizenship Award and the Miller Brewing Distinguished Athlete Award.

Lanier also is doing well in that "other life", as president of Bob Lanier Enterprises Inc., a promotional merchandising business based in Glendale. He and his family continue to live in the Milwaukee area.

Oscar Robertson — the Big O — was the first Buck to have his number retired. Teaming with Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Jon McGlocklin, Bob Dandridge and Greg Smith, along with Lucius Allen, Bob Boozer and Dick Cunningham in reserve, Oscar led the Bucks to the NBA championship in 1970-71.

One of the all-time great guards in the game, Robertson scored more points (26,710), had more assists (9,987), sank more free throws (7,964) and played in more games (1,035) than any other guard in the history of pro basketball.

He earned the NBA ALL-Star MVP award three times, the overall regular season MVP trophy in 1964 and was Rookie-of-the-Year in 1961. He made the All-Star team 11 times.

Twice the Collegiate Player-of-the-Year at the University of Cincinnati, Oscar started his NBA career with the Cincinnati Royals. The Bucks obtained him in 1970 in exchange for Flynn Robinson and Charlie Paulk.

On April 28, 1980, the Big O was unanimously inducted into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass. becoming the first Buck in the Hall. Robertson now is a successful businessman in the Cincinnati area.

Jon McGlocklin has stayed close to the Bucks as a broadcaster. A star at the University of Indiana, McGlocklin was drafted by the Royals in 1965. He played two seasons for that team and a third with the San Diego Rockets, before the Bucks selected him in the 1968 expansion draft.

A pure shooter and tenacious competitor, McGlocklin averaged 12.5 points a game over his eight years with the Bucks, and his .505 field goal percentage ranks among the all-time field goal shooters in NBA history.

McGlocklin and former Brewer Sal Bando are partners in the Bando-McGlocklin Investment Co. Inc. Jon has been active in numerous charitable activities and serves as president of the MACC (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer) Fund.

Brian Winters now serves as an assistant coach at Princeton. An All-American at the University of South Carolina, Winters was drafted by the Los Angeles Lakers on the first round of the 1974 draft. He was named to the NBA All-Rookie team as a Laker after averaging 11.7 points a game.

Winters came to the Bucks as part of the Abdul-Jabbar trade on June 6, 1975. He stayed for eight years, providing an outside shooting touch that earned him All-Star honors in 1975-76 and 1977-78. His best year was 1977-78 when he averaged 19.9 points a game in the regular season and 20.4 ppg. in the playoffs.

Some nagging injuries played a role in Brian's retirement announcement on September 21, 1983. Winters spent some time after retirement working for a Milwaukee investment firm and doing television color commentary. He returned to the game fulltime in June, 1984, when he took the job at Princeton.

BUCKS CAPTURE FIFTH STRAIGHT CENTRAL CROWN — SIXTH OVERALL TITLE

In a year many thought the Detroit Pistons would steal away the Bucks four year stranglehold on the Central Division crown, the reverse turned true. As thrilling as the 1983-84 race was, when Milwaukee won the title on the last day of the regular season, 1984-85 was anticlimactic. When the Los Angeles Lakers ripped Detroit 148-130 at the Forum on March 24 it mathematically eliminated any hope the Pistons had to halt the Bucks from winning their fifth straight Central Division title and sixth consecutive divisional race (won in the Midwest in the 1979-80 season). The Bucks lead ballooned to a season high 15 games over Detroit on March 5 as they had a grip on first place since December 19 and never let go. In fact, the Bucks were only out of at least a tie for the top spot on only five occasions (10/27, 10/30, 10/31, 11/1, and 12/16) which was the least by any division winner in the League. The farthest the Bucks were out of first place was on October 31 when Chicago was 3-1 and Milwaukee 1-1 for a one game deficit and tied for second.

Herbert H. Kohl
President

Herbert H. Kohl wasn't looking for fame or fortune when he set out to purchase the Milwaukee Bucks. All he wanted to do was keep the team in his hometown where he felt they belonged.

But to many Bucks fans, this low-keyed, successful businessman burst onto the scene from out of nowhere and miraculously rescued the Milwaukee franchise from the wrath of out-of-town bidders.

"And the Milwaukee Bucks and their fans lived happily ever after," might read the end of this story. Actually, it's just the beginning of a new era under a new owner. However, the winding road Kohl took towards his eventual purchase of the Bucks has gone full circle.

Consider the following:

*In 1967, Kohl was one of the prime movers in the effort to bring professional basketball to Milwaukee. He backed out of the deal to direct more attention to the family business, allowing Marv Fishman and Wes Pavalon to bring in the expansion team Bucks in 1968.

*In 1970, the sports-minded Kohl was one of 10 investors who helped bring major league baseball and the Milwaukee Brewers to the city. Kohl's childhood buddy and college roommate, Allan H. "Bud" Selig, has been president of the Brewers since their inception.

*From 1970 to '79, Kohl was president of Kohl's Corporation, a statewide food and department store chain. After selling the business, Kohl spent the next five years running his investment firm out of his downtown Milwaukee office.

*On Feb. 5, 1985, Bucks owner Jim Fitzgerald announced that the team was for sale. Almost immediately, Kohl contacted Fitzgerald expressing his interest in buying the Bucks. Kohl's initial offer was a solid one and marathon negotiations began in earnest.

*On March 1, 1985, 17 years after Kohl's initial attempt at owning a professional basketball team, the deal was finalized. Fitzgerald turned over the reins to Kohl at an estimated cost of $19 million. Three days later, Kohl received a call from attorney Joe Tierney, who informed the new Bucks owner that Jane and Lloyd Pettit were going to donate a new arena to the city.

Talk about a long awaited dream come true.

Recalls Kohl on buying the Bucks and all the emotion and positive exposure that went along with it: "It was one of those things that come along once in a lifetime where you do something that is a total up — where everybody is happy and pleased. It's just been a remarkable experience for me. I'm very appreciative."

Kohl never expected such an incredible response when he bought the Bucks. What spurred his interest was more a sense of civic duty and recognizing what the Bucks meant to the city and the state. After all, Milwaukee and Wisconsin had always been good to him and his family.

Kohl's parents immigrated from Eastern Europe to the United States in the 1920's. His father, Max, opened the first Kohl's grocery store in Milwaukee's South Side in 1927. It would become the largest family-run business in the state.

Kohl graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Madison, majoring in American Institutions. In 1958 he received his MBA from the Harvard Business School. After a six-month stint in the Army he joined the family business. That was in 1959 and for the next 20 years he worked at Kohl's.

Over the years Kohl earned the reputation as an extremely hard worker. He worked at every position in the grocery business, "just so I could get a feel for what each particular job was all about."

A genuine people person, Kohl personally interviewed every employee before they were hired. (At one time, more than 6,000 Kohl's Foods employees.) Kohl's rapport with his employees was always one of being open, honest and fair.

But Kohl had other interests outside of the grocery business, many civic-minded in nature. In 1971, he was chairman of the then Wisconsin United Fund, now the United Way. In the mid-70's he served a two-year term as chairman of the Democratic Party of Wisconsin.

An art collector, some of Kohl's personal modern art collection has been shown at many major museums across the United States. He also enjoys spending time on his guest, horse and cattle ranch at the base of Teton Range at Jackson Hole, Wyoming, which is often frequented by many friends and family. Then, of course, there's his love of sports.

"I've always enjoyed sports, particularly basketball," said Kohl, who remarks that back in 1968 it was more important to direct his energies to the family business vs. bringing pro basketball to Milwaukee, "because the city didn't really need me back then."

Still, Kohl knows a good deal when he sees one. And the Bucks, as far as Kohl is concerned, are a good investment. Kohl credits the entire organization, in particular head coach Don Nelson and vice-president of business operations John Steinmiller, for putting together and maintaining a well-tuned operation.

Like every other Bucks' fan, Kohl wants that championship banner back in Milwaukee. He showed he meant business last summer when the Bucks aggressively went after free agent center Joe Barry Carroll of the Golden State Warriors. Although the deal apparently fell through, it did demonstrate Kohl's deep desire to make the Bucks as competitive as possible.

"It's really not our philosophy to go after players via the free agent market," said Kohl. "With Joe Barry, you had an unhappy ballplayer who quit his team. (Carroll played the 1984-85 season in Italy.)

"That kind of person is rare. And it's rarer still to find a ballplayer like that who fits our needs and would like to come to Milwaukee to boot."

Kohl's philosophy on such matters is simple: "As long as it's ethical, moral and legal, the bottom line is winning. I'm very aware of the importance of winning."

That same philosophy is burned into the heart of Nelson. Although "Nellie" wasn't necessarily a requirement when Kohl bought the Bucks, keeping the man who coached the team so well the past nine years was certainly a high priority.

"We both want to win very badly," Kohl said. "We're not satisfied just to be contenders."

A Bucks' season ticketholder from day one, Kohl feels that the Bucks are on the brink of really making some noise in the playoffs. What the team has lacked in the past isn't so much tied up in their personnel, rather the Bucks just haven't gotten the necessary breaks it takes to go all the way. Things like key injuries and just the bounce of ball in a tight ballgame are intangibles no one has control over.

"The important thing is putting out a team that is competitive and plays up to and beyond their potential," Kohl said.

The young Bucks were definitely over-achievers last season. They won 59 regular season games and claimed their sixth straight divisional crown in what was supposed to be a rebuilding year. Can the Bucks do it again?

"To expect the team to do the same thing this year would be remarkable," Kohl said. "First, teams are waiting for us this year. Last season we ambushed them. Second, the other teams in the Eastern Conference have improved themselves. We're basically the same team."

But with a new owner who is extremely sensitive to the needs of the Bucks and their fans.

"The team belongs to the people," stresses Kohl. "It's not like a private business — even though it is legally — that someone owns and they can do what the want."

When Kohl decides to sell the team, presumably many years from now, that someone or organization had best be thinking about keeping the Bucks in Milwaukee "where they belong."

Kohl isn't looking that far into the future. He's more concerned with what's happening now. Thus far, everything has gone well. And with the addition of the Bradley Center, everything is going almost too well.

"Things have worked out just right . . . so far," said Kohl, cautiously. "I'm sure there will be some tough times ahead and maybe times when things don't go so well. As the owner, I will be held responsible."

Kohl welcomes those challenges.

"Right now, everything looks positive," he said. "With the new Bradley Center the Bucks have the opportunity to take on increased significance to the community and the state. There's going to be enormous interest in the Bucks by virtue of the move alone. I know I'm certainly looking forward to bigger and better things."

That's encouraging news to the city which would have suffered major economic and sociological setbacks had the Bucks left town.

"There's no doubt that keeping the Bucks here gave the city a big lift," admits Kohl. "What hasn't yet blossomed is the city's economy. But the city is now clearly poised for revival and most of the 'move outs' have occurred, I feel. The down cycle has bottomed out and it's time for an upswing — both psychologically and economically."

On what he hopes to achieve from a personal standpoint during his tenure as owner of the Bucks, Kohl's goals are to keep the team flourishing both on and off the court.

"I want to do a good job and I want to keep the team healthy for all the years that I own it," he said. "I need to do my share to keep the Bucks healthy — both artistically on the floor and financially, at least at the break-even point.

"I also want the team to keep that positive image. I want to keep the Bucks as something for people of the city of Milwaukee and the state of Wisconsin to be proud of."

John Steinmiller
Vice President-Business Operations

One of the first things Herb Kohl did after buying the Milwaukee Bucks last February was ask John Steinmiller and his front office staff to stay on.

That was quite a tribute to Steinmiller, who heads the business staff of the Bucks in his job as vice-president of business operations.

The Buck's front office has earned the reputation as being one of the best in pro sports. Despite operating in one of the smallest markets in the National Basketball Association, the Bucks have continued to be successful on the court and at the box office. Much of the credit for the business success must go to Steinmiller.

"It's a challenge to operate a basketball franchise in a market this size," Steinmiller said. "Actually, there are pros and cons to it. The size has some inherent problems that go along with it, but also we can do some things in this market that might not work in a bigger city.

"The main thing is that Milwaukee is a great place to live. That makes it a great place to work and to meet the challenges of this job."

Steinmiller also believes that Kohl's purchase of the team and the new Bradley Center will make his job more fun than ever.

"The new ownership solidifies the future of the Bucks in Milwaukee," he said. "And, the Bradley Center will solve our facility problem. We now can do some long range planning, which we couldn't do before."

Steinmiller has grown right along with the Bucks' franchise. After graduating from Marquette with a degree in journalism in 1970, he joined the Bucks as an administrative assistant with duties ranging from ticket sales to publicity work.

In 1972, at the tender age of 22, he became the youngest publicity director in pro sports. In 1977, he was tapped to take over the day-to-day business operations of the franchise.

Steinmiller works closely with Don Nelson, Bucks' coach and director of player personnel. Together, they handle many of the duties of what many teams call a general manager.

"We each have our certain areas, yet also overlap," Steinmiller said of his relationship with Nelson. "Nellie and I have grown together in our jobs. We have a rather unique relationship.

"I think that's been one of the Bucks' strengths. We've had a consistency here, with people who have grown with the organization."

Steinmiller points out that the Bucks' front office will continue their aggressive, innovative marketing under Kohl's ownership. This year, the team has increased links with area companies in promotional ventures.

A "Go Bucks Go" club has been formed to promote identity with fans, especially those in outlying areas. A special season ticket sales program — emphasizing that fans can get priority seating for the new Bradley Center — also was undertaken and proved quite successful.

"We are continuing to work on ways to improve the business operations of our franchise," Steinmiller said. "Everybody in our organization knows Mr. Kohl made a big commitment to Milwaukee when he bought the team. We want to show our commitment too."

A native of Mt. Prospect, Illinois, Steinmiller is a graduate of St. Viator High School. He serves on the board of the Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer (MACC) Fund, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, and The Ronald McDonald House for families of hospitalized children. He also is a member of the Sales and Marketing Executives of Milwaukee.

John and his wife, Corinne, live in Shorewood with a four-year-old son John Henry, and a year-old daughter Mary Kate.

Don Nelson
Head Coach and Director of Player Personnel

What a difference a season makes, if you are the Milwaukee Bucks and Coach Don Nelson.

At the end of the 1983-84 season, Nelson considered retirement. At the end of the 1984-85 season, he was named NBA Coach of the Year.

At the beginning of the 1984-85 season, Nelson warned of the rebuilding task ahead for the Bucks, after losing Bob Lanier to retirement and Marques Johnson in a trade. But at the end of last season, there were the Bucks, albeit with some new faces, still perched in their familiar position as Central Division Champions.

Even the adversity of a plane mishap in Washington, D.C., that cost the Bucks Mike Dunleavy, and the potential distraction of a mid-season sale were not enough to deter Nelson and his Bucks from their mission.

"This past year was probably one of the most memorable years I'll ever have in coaching, when I look back on it, because I really did not expect a lot of positive things," he said.

It was certainly the kind of year that put thoughts of retirement on the back burner.

"I think a person is supposed to do what he's best at for as long as he can," the coach said as this season began. "I was glad I decided to continue my coaching career. It was a good decision to continue. I want to coach a number of years longer. I don't know how long that is going to be . . . but a long time."

One factor that made it a more enjoyable season was Nelson was able to keep winning and losing in the proper perspective. It is easier to keep your sportcoat on when the team responds like a well-oiled machine, however.

"I worked pretty hard at not taking the game as seriously as I did for a number of years because it was destroying me. And it was going to shorten my career as a coach. So it's one area that I've done better," he said.

It was easy to see that Nellie was as calm last season as he's been since being pressed to take over for Larry Costello just 18 games into the 1976-77 season. Nelson's Coach of the Year awards in 1985 and 1983 show he is now among the elite of his trade.

"When you're voted Coach of the Year by the press and your peers . . . it's a special time in anybody's life. I don't want to be blase about that at all. It does mean a lot to anybody. But I think I've established that I do a good job coaching. It's not necessary for me to win awards to know that I do a good job and my staff does a good job. But (being named) was nice. I enjoyed it."

Another nice feeling for Nelson was his ability to continue a good relationship with new owner Herb Kohl, as he enjoyed with former owner Jim Fitzgerald. He agreed to his typical "hand shake" contract with Kohl. Also, Kohl has shown a commitment to produce a winner, a goal Nelson shares.

One of the areas the Bucks have been looking to improve is at center.

"But I don't want to point just center out as being an area of weakness, because I don't think it is," the coach said. "It is an area we can improve upon. But I think we can get a little better at any position on the team."

Still, this season's edition of the Milwaukee Bucks "has a nice blend of younger and older players."

He discounted that losing in the playoffs to the Philadlephia 76ers was a matter of their experience. He said the 76ers were "a good team that happened to also get hot."

As for the playoffs this year, you can expect the Bucks to be in them again. Nellie hopes the team will be more prepared then.

"But I have no excuses for what my teams have done. We play hard and we play well."

He also sees some help coming from first round draft pick Jerry Reynolds, who may be seeing a lot of playing time by season's end.

Because of Reynolds' acquisition, Nelson also expects to play more of the "passing" game this season, instead of set plays.

"It will be a fast-tempo game with a good, basically-structured defense," Nelson promised.

"This will be an exciting year simply because every team seemed to improve itself in the draft and through trades. That normally is what happens, and we're going to have our hands full. Really, I think Indiana did a good job (acquiring Wayman Tisdale) and Chicago — they're practically a new team. And Detroit and Atlanta have continued to get better and do a few things. So we have to do the same thing."

"It's going to be a very challenging year."

Nelson has had many exciting years already in basketball, 11 of them as a forward with the Boston Celtics in their glory years. He strung together 465 consecutive games and scored 10,000 points, so the University of Iowa grad knows what it takes to win.

"We have a good, young basketball team, but some of these young players have to get better now. If they do, we'll do better."

"I'm not really into a lot of personal goals. I'm just really into trying to do a good job and make sure my team does a good job and give it all we got."

The Bucks are in good hands with Nelson. If what he and the team wrought last year is any indication, just think what this year will bring.

Mike Schuler
Assistant Coach

Mike Schuler returns for his third year as Don Nelson's top assistant, after an off-season of rumors that he might go elsewhere.

Schuler, 45, was a candidate for the head coaching job of the Seattle SuperSonics. But, he returned to Milwaukee to once again provide able assistance to Nelson.

"I came close to getting the Seattle job," Schuler admits. "I've always been quite open about the fact that my ultimate goal is to become a head coach.

"However, I have no regrets about returning to assist Nellie. I feel I have the best assistant coaching job in the NBA.

"I've learned a lot from working with Nellie, about basketball and people. I'd still like to be a head coach some day, but also like it here."

Schuler came to the Bucks from the New Jersey Nets, where he served as an assistant under Larry Brown. He has an extensive coaching background on several levels of the game.

A native of Portsmouth, Ohio, he attended Ohio University in Athens, Ohio, where he played for Coach Jim Snyder. After graduating from OU, Schuler spent three years in high school coaching and a year with Bobby Knight's NIT-bound Army team.

In 1966, he returned to OU. Over the next three years, he helped Snyder lead the team to two Mid-American conference titles and a trip to the NIT.

From 1969 to 1972, Schuler was head coach at the Virginia Military Institute. He spent five years, from 1972 to 1977, at the University of Virginia. During that time, Virginia won an ACC title in 1976 and had a near miss in 1977, losing to North Carolina in the title game.

Schuler served as head coach at Rice University from 1977 to 1981. He was named Southwest Conference Co-Coach of the Year in 1980, when Rice had its winningest season in a decade.

In 1981, Brown needed an assistant at New Jersey, and tapped Schuler for the job. During Mike's years with the Nets, the team grew from from a young, building club to a contender in the tough Atlantic Division of the NBA. Mike coached the Nets Summer League team and compiled a 25-5 record. The team won the league title in 1981 and went to the semi-finals in 1982.

When Brown resigned to coach at the University of Kansas, Schuler started to look elsewhere and was hired by Nelson. He has blended well with Nelson's team-oriented philosophy and has worked especially well with the young players on the team.

Schuler is married. He and his wife, Gloria, have two daughters, Kimberly and Kristin, who attend college in Texas.

Garry St. Jean
Assistant Coach and
Assistant Director of Player Personnel

The Milwaukee Bucks dominant color may be green, but in case you didn't notice last season, Assistant Coach Garry St. Jean was just one of the brain trust who thought "rosy" might have been more appropriate.

St. Jean, 35, actually said he was "tickled pink" about the "absolutely fabulous" season the Bucks had last year after the doom-sayers had written early obituaries based on the retirement of Bob Lanier and trading of Marques Johnson.

And if St. Jean was one who expected everything to come up roses for the Bucks as they once again won the Central Division title over much-improved division rivals, he expects even better things this year.

"If things just stay the way they are, the team will do well," said St. Jean.

"Jerry Reynolds is a good player," he said of the Bucks first round draft pick. "And (center Randy) Breuer has improved and put on weight so I have a lot of optimism."

St. Jean has always had a big influence on the Bucks draft decisions, although he has continued to spend almost every home game on the Bucks bench as well. St. Jean also makes it clear he enjoys his other title as assistant director of player personnel.

"I enjoy helping Nellie keep up on what goes on around the League as well as in the college gyms around the country," he said. "I love both parts of my job. Right now, I would not want to give up either."

Of course, St. Jean admits it was easier when he was single to jet all over the country satisfying his almost insatiable basketball appetite.

Before the start of the 1984-85 season, he married Mary Jane O'Sullivan. They live in Whitefish Bay during the season and Cape Cod during the summer months.

St. Jean has a Masters Degree in Physical Education from Springfield College in Massachusetts.

He also has put in his time in the various camps, post-season classics, and regular NBA games. In the 1983-84 season, he missed only seven games. This past season, he missed only five. He is shooting for a perfect record this year . . . something he would like the Bucks to aim for as well.

He says he is not overly anxious to leave the franchise for a shot at coaching his own team, although that might enter into his thinking in the future.

"Coaching is not out of the realm sometime, but I've taken the direction in which I've been led. Also, the front office would be fine," he said.

"I'm not concerned . . . I'm pleased with the progress I've made."

You might say he's tickled pink while other assistant coaches might be green with envy over St. Jean's situation as it stands with the Milwaukee Bucks today.

FOUR POINT PLAYS

Four current or former Bucks have had at least one four point play although only two had one while wearing a Bucks uniform. A four point play is when a player makes a three point field goal attempt and is fouled on the play and makes the ensuring foul shot. Here's the list.

Sam Smith — Chicago vs. Milwaukee 10/21/79 had the first one ever in the NBA.
Brian Winters — Milwaukee vs. Philadelphia 11/6/79 had the second one ever in the NBA.
Kevin Grevey — Washington vs Philadelphia 11/3/81.
Brian Winters — Milwaukee vs. Phoenix 2/7/82.
Kevin Grevey — Washington vs. New York 3/21/82.
Paul Pressey — Milwaukee vs. Washington 12/1/84 was the most recent one for a Buck.

Del Harris
Scout

After providing his considerable expertise and acting as a sounding board for the Bucks' coaching staff the past two seasons, Del Harris has officially joined the Bucks family as a scout beginning this season. Harris, the winningest head coach the Houston Rockets franchise has known, primarily will concentrate on scouting NBA opponents and focus on the Western Conference clubs after the first third of the season. During the playoffs Harris will offer another set of eyes and an insightful perspective to either affirm the Bucks scouting report on an upcoming opponent or play devil's advocate with the game plan the Bucks devise.

Harris' silver hair and Indiana twang became as familiar to pro basketball fans the spring of 1981 as Moses Malone's "bull in a china shop" approach to basketball. It was that season that Harris and Malone led the Rockets to the second of three consecutive appearances in the NBA playoffs. That was the year the Rockets won the Western Conference title, and threw a scare into the vaunted Boston Celtics and Larry Bird for the NBA title. That season the Rockets also became only the third team in League history to reach the finals with a regular season mark under .500. In the playoffs the club set an all-time N.B.A. mark with eight road playoff wins, breaking the record of seven by Boston in 1968.

Harris and Bucks head coach Don Nelson have a similar philosophy on their approach to the pro game . . . and that's to key on defense. Harris' 1981 team set an all-time defensive mark for playoff competition by holding the opposition under 100 points in nine straight games. The Rockets' points-allowed average continually improved under Harris' leadership each season much in the same vein the Bucks have been the kingpins of defense the past few seasons under Nelson.

A native of Plainfield, Indiana, Harris graduated from Milligan College in Tennessee where he won four letters each in basketball and baseball. He began coaching on the prep level in Tennessee and Indiana, compiling a 79-36 five-year mark. He then moved to Earlham College in Richmond, Indiana where his teams had a nine-year record of 185-70 (.714%), his last seven teams there averaging over 20 wins and earning post-season tourney berths. Certainly those marks were exemplary for someone who originally got into coaching only temporarily and sought to be a minister.

Prior to joining the Rockets in 1976 as an assistant to Tom Nissalke, Harris was an assistant coach with the A.B.A. Utah Stars and at the University of Utah.

He has written three books, Multiple Defense for Winning Basketball (1971), Coaching Basketball's Zone Offense (1975), and a positive living novel for teenagers, Playing the Game.

Aside from his duties with the Bucks, Del also spends considerable time with a personal investment firm he manages from his home in Houston.

Sam Schuler
Scout

One of the newest members of the Bucks' family is scout Sam Schuler. Literally, Schuler is the husband of Jean Schuler, who has been with the Bucks 13 years and presently serves as executive secretary to head coach Don Nelson and vice-president of business operations John Steinmiller.

Schuler, 42, was brought on board by the Bucks last summer in an effort to increase the team's scouting capabilities. His appointment allows Garry St. Jean to concentrate primarily on coaching and to act as assistant director of player personnel. St. Jean expects to continue doing some scouting this year, although the bulk of the collegiate scouting reports will be coming from Schuler.

"Garry will help me get my feet wet," said Schuler. "But once I learn the ropes a little bit I'm on my own."

Adjusting to a rugged travel schedule and hectic hours will take some time, admits Schuler, but the actual scouting is an opportunity he is really looking forward to.

Schuler has spent the past 20 years in the physical education and interscholastic coaching fields. The last 17 years he was a physical education teacher at Oak Creek High School and coached in the basketball program there nine seasons. And for more than a decade, he's been an avid follower of the Bucks.

"I've always been close to the Bucks' coaching staff," Schuler said. "Nellie and I talked a lot of basketball and we share a lot of common insights.

"I had been doing a little scouting for the Bucks, but not that much, really. When Nellie offered me the opportunity to give scouting a try on a full-time basis, I said 'sure.'"

But not without consulting the Mrs. first. A husband-wife team sharing the same office space is not always the most compatible position to be in. Nor does it help to have a spouse away from home and flying coast-to-coast from November to April.

"I don't think it will be a problem," Schuler said. "Nellie and I have the understanding that my marriage comes first. And as far as Jean and myself are concerned, so far so good."

Besides scouting collegiate talent, with the addition of Schuler, the Bucks anticipate keeping closer tabs on the players in the League's minor league system, the Continental Basketball Association. What, exactly, Schuler will be looking for in terms of talent won't vary from the Bucks' philosophy of past seasons. The only difference this year is that the Bucks hope to do an even more thorough job of analyzing players.

"We're looking for tough kids . . . good, hard-nosed ballplayers with good characters," Schuler said. "It'll be my job to look for those qualities in a ballplayer . . . to check out problem areas. Our coaching staff is pretty much in agreement in what we're looking for. Basically, with the type of ball played in the Eastern Conference we're looking for physical ballplayers."

Schuler said the pro game has gotten so much more complicated and competitive over the years that scouting has almost become a sophisticated science. More and more teams are relying on actually having someone scouting a particular player vs. just viewing game films.

"There's a big difference between watching a player on tape vs. being there live," Schuler said. "Tapes are important, but you don't get the whole picture. You see so much more when you're there live. You get a better overview — not just the camera's viewpoint which pretty much just follows the ball."

Who's hot in the 1986 draft? Schuler has a pretty good idea but it won't be as good as the past one. There are no "franchise type" centers in the senior class. However, there are a lot of good senior forwards, Schuler said, and with underclassmen leaving school early to turn pro anything can happen.

Schuler is a native of Blanchardville, Wisconsin, and a graduate of Blanchardville High School. He received his degree in physical education from the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse in 1965. He coached baseball for three seasons at Wisconsin Heights before moving to Oak Creek in 1968.

The Schulers are parents of three children, Kimberly, Scott and David. They reside in suburban Wauwatosa.

Jeff Snedeker
Trainer

Pick one person Bucks' players turn to in a time of need and it's likely to be Jeff Snedeker.

When it comes to injuries, the players may come to the Bucks' trainer for help, consultation or an occasional bandage. The players may also come to Snedeker, who also doubles as the team's travelling secretary, when they need their per diem money when the Bucks are on the road.

"Essentially, my responsibility as travelling secretary is to make sure the team gets from point A to point B as smoothly as possible," said Snedeker, who is responsible for making the Bucks' travel and hotel arrangements.

But where Snedeker centers most of his attention — and where he has for the past 26 years — is on sports medicine. And keeping players as injury-free as possible is what concerns Snedeker most. But he's quick to point out, "No one can prevent injuries. You can work on conditioning programs but with the travel schedule and just the nature of the game of basketball there are no guarantees."

But when injuries do occur, it's Snedeker's job to help treat the athlete and aid in his recovery. And he's seen his share of just about every type of injury.

For 14 seasons he treated the New York Jets, and is at least partly responsible for keeping quarterback Joe Namath's knees and throwing arm intact enough to win Super Bowl III. He also worked two years with pro soccer's Pele and the New York Cosmos, as well as offering his services as trainer to visiting teams at Madison Square Garden and as a substitute trainer to the New York Knicks.

This is Snedeker's seventh year with the Bucks. There have been years when the Bucks looked more like a MASH unit than a basketball team. But Snedeker, having weathered Bob Lanier's wobbly knees and all the other injuries over the years, continues to work diligently at preserving today's modern athlete. He's also more optimistic now that the Bucks have installed a new and improved weight room in the Arena.

"I'm in charge of ordering the equipment and setting up weight programs for each player," Snedeker said. "If a player is stronger he will perform better and that increases the possibility of playing on a winning team."

On athletes in general, Snedeker stresses the importance of weight training techniques. "Athletes are getting bigger, stronger and faster. They can't rely solely on skill. The strength factor of an athlete has proven itself on its own."

Athletes as well realize the importance of adhering to a formal weight training program. Besides feeling stronger at the end of the season, the well-trained athlete is also likely to extend his playing career. In terms of money, that type of longevity is likely to have a positive effect on his salary.

That kind of attitude has trickled down even to the weekend warrior, who is trying to stay in shape in today's health conscious society.

Seeing this need, the Bucks' trainer currently operates two facilities called "The Sports Clinic," in the Milwaukee area. The clinics are open to the public and frequently used during the off-season by members of the Bucks, Brewers and Admirals.

For the second straight year, Snedeker has been elected secretary-treasurer of the NBA Trainer's Association. This comes after being honored by his peers for 25 years of service to the National Athletic Trainers Association. He is also involved with The Great Lakes Athletic Trainers Association, the American College of Medicine, and the Association of Fitness in Business.

Snedeker has a Master of Science degree in athletic training from Indiana University. He has lectured in physical education at Barnard College in New York while teaching graduate courses in sports medicine.

Snedeker and his wife, Joy, live in Whitefish Bay. They have four daughters, Cheryl, Connie, Karen and Kathy. During the off-season, the Snedekers escape to Lake George on the eastern border of upstate New York.

Bill King II
Director of Publicity

As Director of Publicity for the Milwaukee Bucks, Bill King's responsibility is to serve as a conduit for information between the coaching staff, players, and business side of the club to the media and fans.

Those responsibilities range from the day-to-day public relations functions of the club to scheduling public appearances of the players. On a daily basis King's duties include the writing and editing of news releases, media guides, the HOOP game program, and a column entited "King's Court." He is responsible for the management of home games in the Milwaukee Arena with special attention to press accommodations, the statistical crew, and photography. Under King's direction, the Bucks were the first NBA team to implement a courtside computerized scoring system to tabulate and distribute statistics to the media. He also serves as a liaison between the Bucks and WVTV-Channel 18 on selected road games.

King entered the NBA in 1977 as the youngest publicity director in professional sports on the major league level. Now 30, he ranks fifth in seniority among his NBA peers and has twice been recognized for excellence in his profession. In each of the past two seasons a select group of NBA writers and broadcasters have voted King an honorable mention award as the top P.R. director in the NBA's Eastern Conference. The award is presented through the NBA Public Relations Directors Association by the Phillips Petroleum Corporaiton.

A native of Neptune City, New Jersey, King is a graduate of Neptune High School where he was involved in a host of extracurricular activities. He went on to become the youngest full-time Sports Information Director in the nation at Morris Harvey College (now the University of Charleston), in Charleston, West Virginia. While serving as Morris Harvey Sports Information Director, King's publications received numerous national awards from CoSIDA, the College Sports Information Directors of America. King was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities while at Morris Harvey, an award he also received on the high school level.

King joined the Bucks after serving a brief stint as the Assistant Promotions Director at Tulane University in New Orleans and eight years as publicist and statistician for the Jersey Shore Summer Basketball League, a loop that features NBA players.

Bill and his wife, the former Shelley Bundy, call Waukesha home. During the summer months the couple enjoy jet skiing and travelling.

FITZGERALD SELLS, KOHL BUYS AND PETTITS BUILD

On February 5, 1985 Bucks owner Jim Fitzgerald announced the club was for sale and placed a caveat that gave priority to local ownership. On March 1, 1985 Herb Kohl, a native Milwaukeean, announced that he had agreed to purchase the Bucks and vowed to keep the team in Milwaukee. The saga didn't end there as Lloyd and Jane Pettit revealed on March 5, 1985 that they would donate $30 to $40 million to build a 20,000 seat arena to house the Bucks and other major sports and entertainment events. The new building would be named the Bradley Center, after Mrs. Pettit's father (Harry Lynde Bradley of the Allen-Bradley Corporation) and will be built next to County Stadium, home of the Milwaukee Brewers.

Bea Westfahl
Ticket and Office Manager

Perhaps it's because she is a former music teacher. But for the past 17 seasons, Bea Westfahl has orchestrated one of the most efficient office operations in the NBA.

Mrs. Westfahl is the Bucks' ticket and office manager, a position that's much more complicated than it looks. She directs the mail, phone, over-the-counter, and group ticket sales, while servicing the thousands of season ticket accounts. In addition, Mrs. Westfahl coordinates the Bucks link with the computerized Ticketron outlets.

To add a "personal touch" she also works closely with the Bucks season ticketholders in the selection of seat locations and other services they may need during the course of the season.

Fortunately, Mrs. Westfahl gets valuable assistance from a competent seven-person office staff.

Bea joined the Bucks in 1969 after nine years as the head of concessions and grandstand operations for the Wisconsin State Fair Park.

Mrs. Westfahl is a charter member and serves on the advisory board of Box Office Management International (BOMI). The international organization is comprised of arenas, stadiums, theaters, universities, coliseums, and concert halls. It serves as a think tank for those in the ticket industry. BOMI helps advance management techniques, upgrade systems, exchange ideas and concepts on effective box office management while monitoring and analyzing the latest technological advances in ticket selling and accounting. Mrs. Westfahl has lectured at various international and regional conferences and organized regional workshops the most recent of which was held in Milwaukee.

Born in Wauwatosa, raised in West Allis, Mrs. Westfahl shares her hours away from the office with her husband Don, a retired Milwaukee fireman. They are the parents of three sons and have two grandchildren.

Though her teaching career is behind her, Bea still enjoys music, especially the piano. She at one time was a private music instructor in the area.

During the summer months, when Bea's office hours are less demanding, she enjoys the outdoors, especially time with the family on Tichigan Lake.

MONTH-BY-MONTH — BUCKS ARE CONSISTANT

Through the end of the 1984-85 regular season, the Bucks have played 30 consecutive months of .500 or better basketball.

COACH OF THE YEAR HONORS

Only three coaches in the history of the NBA have won two Coach of the Year awards. Don Nelson of the Bucks is one (1983 & 1985). Bill Fitch (1976 with Cleveland and 1980 with Boston) and Gene Shue (1969 with Baltimore and 1982 with Washington) are the others.

900-600

On March 28, 1985 when the Bucks beat the New York Knickerbockers 121-116 at Madison Square Garden, it brought the franchise record to 900-600 (.600%) for regular season and playoff games combined.

SIXERS A CONSISTANT SELLOUT

The Bucks have sold out 16 consecutive regular season games in the Arena vs. the Philadelphia 76ers dating back to December 12, 1976. It's the longest streak going vs. one club for the Bucks.

LIMITED P.T.

When NBA players refer to "P.T." they're talking about playing time. These players have seen the "least" amount of action while in a Bucks uniform: Delmer Beshore (one minute in one game), Linton Townes (two minutes in two games), Mark West (six minutes in one game), Brad Holland (nine minutes in one game), and Bob Rule (11 minutes in one game).

LAST NON-FIRST ROUNDER TO SEE ACTION

The last non-first round draft pick by the Bucks to see action in a regular season game was fourth rounder Otis Howard of Austin Peay during the 1978-79 season. No fifth rounder has ever played for the Bucks.

Chuck Reupert
Controller

Chuck Reupert is what Herb Kohl refers to as his "numbers man." Since the change in ownership of the Bucks franchise, Chuck has been immersed in those "numbers" more than ever before.

As team controller, Reupert is charged with keeping an eye on the day-to-day finances of the franchise. His duties are somewhat different now that Kohl is sole owner of the Bucks. With Jim Fitzgerald as the main cog, the Bucks were owned by a corporation.

After 15 years on the job with the Bucks, however, Reupert is capable of handling his job under any form of ownership. In fact, Kohl is the third owner he has served under.

When he's not pouring over the Bucks' books, he's on the race track. A veteran racer and former Class D Midwest champ, Chuck races custom sports cars across the country and serves as an engine distributor.

Chuck attended Boy's Tech High School, the University of Wisconsin and UW-Milwaukee. He served as an infantry squad leader in Korea and was a third officer in the U.S. Maritime Service in World War II.

Reupert has twin sons, Mike and Mark, who live in the Milwaukee area. Chuck, his wife Susie, and 12 year-old son, Sean, live in Milwaukee.

Steve Harms
Sales Coordinator

Steve Harms came home this past summer.

The 25-year-old Brookfield native joined the Bucks in July as the team's Sales Coordinator. He is now working as the Buck's outside sales contact, selling Bucks tickets to corporations, businesses and professionals throughout the Greater Milwaukee area. Steve also assisted in organizing "The Bucks Boosters", a citizen volunteer support group which aids the Bucks organizaton in its drive for increased ticket sales. The group is composed of fifteen community leaders and business persons who head teams of additional volunteers who call on prospective ticket purchasers.

Joining a seasoned ticket department, Harms' arrival coincides with one of the busiest periods in the club's history. The number of season ticketholders is at its highest point in five seasons. "Our current season ticketholders know that they will be able to get better seat locations when the Bradley Center opens in 1987. That's part of the reason why season ticket sales are up," Harms says.

Team President Herb Kohl is happy with the Bucks' sales results. "I'm pleased with the unselfish enthusiasm and effort that is constantly being put forth to further solidify the Bucks current and future success on and off the playing floor. We have to increase and maintain the number of fans in the stands to increase and maintain our high level of performance on the court."

Before moving back to Milwaukee, Harms was one of the top salespersons in the Detroit Pistons organization. In the two and a half years Steve was in the Motor City, the Pistons led the NBA in attendance and shattered single game attendance marks.

You might wonder why Harms would leave such a successful sales department to join the Bucks. "It's because the future of NBA basketball in Milwaukee looks so bright," Harms answers. "The Bradley Center will be open in two years and because of that, I predict attendance will increase greatly. Any time you have a state-of-the-art facility and a great team, you're looking at increased attendance.

Steve holds a degree in Recreation from the University of Wisconsin-LaCrosse and now lives in Brookfield with his wife Lori, a medical technologist.

Fr. Gene Jakubek, S.J.
Chaplain

Fr. Gene Jakubek realizes that sometimes professional athletes get bad publicity, and some of it may seem well deserved.

But he also sees many of the players in the League heading for a closer relationship with God as well.

"I think it's getting that way in sports," says Fr. Gene, one of the few chaplains in the NBA.

He does say that much of his work goes on behind the scenes rather than counseling players on God in the locker room.

"My work is primarily in psychologically helping guys," Fr. Gene said. "I try to help them keep their priorities straight and in line."

Any person who undergoes the massive lifestyle changes that are incumbent on a professional athlete needs some help at some time.

"I'm someone they can lean on from a distance. They know I'm interested in them and I don't pry into their private lives," he said.

"I love the opportunity to help."

Fr. Gene's entire life seems geared to that purpose.

His inspirational television program "The Answer Is Love," is now seen in over 9 million homes throughout the nation.

He has also long been involved in "Fr. Gene's HELP — Happiness for the Elderly, Lonely and Poor."

The program has over 2,400 volunteers who work to feed, clothe, and entertain the city's less fortunate. The program now reaches over 145,000, up from 107,000 last year.

On a more personal note, Fr. Gene is doing quite well after last year's twin hip replacement surgery. Dr. David Haskell, who often operates on Bucks players, also did this surgery.

Even when he was still recovering, Fr. Gene made it to many of the Bucks games not only because he enjoys them, but also so he could be there in case he was needed by any of the Bucks.

As for the team he says, "I can honestly give you a picture of good people."

He sees this Bucks team, as a group of men who take the spiritual aspect of their lives seriously.

That's always a good atmosphere for a chaplain to be in.

Tom Hoffer
Equipment Manager

Half of what really goes on at a Milwaukee Bucks game takes place away from the fans' eyes, where Equipment Manager Tom Hoffer has run things for the past decade.

And the sophisticated way in which things get done at the Milwaukee Arena speaks well for Hoffer and the 30 ball boys/promotional crew who take care of business.

That business is varied for the quick-witted Hoffer. Besides just wheeling basketballs out to the open court every home game, he must purchase equipment, supervise the numerous Bucks promotional events, and aid the scouts and coaches in videotape retrieval of both pro and college games.

For Hoffer, who spent two years as a ball boy before becoming equipment manager, it is a labor of love. His memories go back to some of the game's greats, including Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Bob Lanier, and many other visiting royalty of round ball.

"It's an enjoyable experience working with all these people," said Hoffer. It's also an experience that he expects to continue for the foreseeable future.

The 28-year-old has respect for the Arena but admits a certain air of anticipation about the scheduled construction of the new Bradley Center for the Bucks near Milwaukee County Stadium.

Hoffer admits he does not know the kind of impact the new facility will have on his activities. He undoubtedly will continue to purchase everything from jocks to socks for players. The popularity of the Bucks mail-in boutique, with its ever-widening assortment of goods, also has meant he has been more busy overseeing that operation. And games consume an entire day for one of the first persons in and the last to leave.

But Hoffer hardly minds. His love for basketball and the Bucks organization is strong. He said he someday would like to advance further in the management and try his hand at more serious marketing.

For Hoffer, anything that keeps him close to the hardwood court will not be too hard to take.

Jim Irwin
Voice of the Bucks

Jim Irwin is in his sixth full season as the radio voice of the Milwaukee Bucks on WTMJ.

He says the last two seasons have been more enjoyable than ever.

"Last year was very exciting because nobody expected the team to be as good as it was," Irwin said. "Also, it was a year in which the Bucks went from a struggling franchise to one of the most solid franchises in the NBA, thanks to Herb Kohl and Lloyd and Jane Pettit. This year, the young team should improve even more."

When Irwin isn't doing Bucks' games, he's likely to be handling football broadcasts of the University of Wisconsin Badgers and Green Bay Packers.

At times during the late fall and early winter, Irwin will do a Badger game on a Saturday afternoon, a Packer contest on Sunday afternoon and two Bucks games on both evenings.

It's an exhausting pace, but Irwin handles it because he loves what he does.

"If I can continue to do play-by-play, I'll be the happiest guy around," he said. "I really do love what I do."

Irwin started his career at a small station in his native Missouri. He was playing "foot stomping music" in Osage Beach, Missouri, and entered sportscasting by doing some local high school games.

After receiving his degree from the University of Missouri, Irwin came to Wisconsin in 1964 to do Packer games for a Green Bay station and the popular Packerama program. In 1969, he joined WTMJ as color man alongside Ted Moore for Wisconsin football broadcasts. When Moore left the following year, Jim inherited the play-by-play.

Irwin also has done UW and UW-Milwaukee basketball games, the Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament, the Indianapolis 500 and many other major events. He also handles opinionated commentaries and regular sportscasts on both WTMJ radio while continuing to appear on the TV side of WTMJ from time to time.

Jim started filling in on Bucks' games in 1977, whenever regular play-by-play man Eddie Doucette did television games. When Doucette left for the West Coast, Irwin was selected as his replacement in 1979-80.

All this experience has paid off. Irwin has been selected Wisconsin Sportscaster of the Year six times.

An avid runner and golfer, Irwin has served as host of the Frigid Five benefit run for the American Heart Association and last summer golfed in several benefit tournaments. He also was one of a foursome of local golfers to play at Whitnall Park with touring pro Bill Kratzert in the Milwaukee County Pro Golf Shoot-Out.

Irwin and his wife, Gloria, a producer for public television, live in Whitefish Bay. They have two children, Anne, a student at Wellesley College in Massachusetts and Jay, a freshman at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill.

Jon McGlocklin
Color Analyst

After 11 seasons as a NBA player, Jon McGlocklin now is a veteran of 10 seasons behind the microphone as a broadcaster for Bucks' games.

"I guess the rookie tag has to be dropped now," said McGlocklin, who splits his time between WTMJ radio broadcasts and WVTV telecasts. "I qualify as a veteran now."

"Jonny Mac" has learned a lot from Eddie Doucette and Jim Irwin, his past and present partners on Bucks' broadcasts. He handles play-by-play and color commentary with adeptness.

Of course, McGlocklin also knows the game inside and out. A graduate of Indiana University, McGlocklin was one of the finest outside shooters in the game during his years in the NBA. He's happy that he has stayed close to basketball through broadcasting.

"There's something inside me that keeps me close to the game," he said. "The travel gets a little old after 20 years, but I still enjoy the broadcasts."

McGlocklin settled in Greendale after his retirement as an active player in 1976. He, his wife Pam, and two children, Shannon, 16, and Meghan, 10, still live there.

Jon has been involved in several business ventures in the area over the years. He serves as vice-president of the Bando-McGlocklin Investment Co., Inc., a partnership operated with former Brewer Sal Bando.

McGlocklin also has been generous with his time in charitable organizations. He is president of the MACC (Midwest Athletes Against Childhood Cancer) Fund, which was formed upon his retirement as a player.

The MACC Fund helps support research to discover effective treatments and cures for childhood cancer. The primary benefactor of the monies is the Midwest Children's Cancer Center at Milwaukee Children's Hospital, one of the few exclusively pediatric cancer research facilities in the country.

Jon also has been active in Athletes for Youth, the Wisconsin Society to Prevent Blindness, the Wisconsin Easter Seal Foundation and other charitable organizations.

Bill Berg
TV Announcer

Bill Berg, who is teaming with Jon McGlocklin on Bucks' telecasts for the second year, has long considered Milwaukee a home away from home.

Berg lives in the Chicago suburb of Addison, but has strong ties to Milwaukee.

"Our second son was born there," said Berg, who worked at two Milwaukee radio stations in the mid-1960's. "In fact, we had to get the doctor out of a Marquette game to deliver him.

"We still have many friends there. We ski at Alpine Valley and Wilmot and love Wisconsin and Milwaukee. I'm really happy to be doing Bucks games again on TV 18."

Berg, 49, is best known for his long-running afternoon talk show on WGN radio, which consistently topped the ratings in its time slot. However, sports are really Bill's first love.

He played three sports in high school and semi-pro baseball. He still umpires high school baseball games and officiates basketball games.

While a student at St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn., he began doing sports broadcasts 30 years ago. During his years in Milwaukee radio, he broadcast Land of Lakes baseball games.

In the late 60's, Berg served as sports director of WIND in Chicago and did college football and NBA basketball broadcasts.

Even while doing his popular talk show, he handled broadcasts of the DePaul Blue Demons and Loyola Ramblers. He also did some television work with the Chicago Cubs and was the voice of the Chicago Blitz of the USFL.

Berg got the Bucks' TV 18 slot last year after several friends told him he should apply for it.

"I didn't even realize it was open," he said. "After several people told me I should apply, I called John Steinmiller, and before I was done introducing myself he told me to send a tape."

Berg thinks the Bucks have one of the fine young teams in the NBA. He is happy TV 18 has expanded its schedule to 30 games this season.

The expanded schedule keeps Berg busy. He also does narration for videos and industrial firms.

Bill and his wife Charlene are the parents of five children, all who have been involved in sports.

'84-'85 Regular Season: 1985 All-Defensive First Team . . . led all NBA forwards in playmaking passing for a team high 6.8 assists per game . . . Paul's total of 543 assists for the season is the most assists any Buck has tallied since Oscar Robertson passed for 551 in 1972-73 . . . set new career season high totals in all statistical categories except FG% (Paul hit .520% from the field in 1983-84 and .517% in 1984-85) . . . biggest improvement came in free throw shooting — for the year Paul canned 317-418 (.758%) compared to his career mark of .598% . . . led the Bucks with 129 steals on the season (1.6 takes per tilt) . . . passed for more assists this season than he did in his first two seasons combined . . . on the season Paul had two triple doubles (tied with Sidney Moncrief for the team lead) and eleven double-doubles . . . three of those double-doubles were points-rebounds double efforts in which the Bucks were 3-0 — eight were points-assists double efforts in which the Bucks posted a 6-2 mark . . . scored 1,000 points in a season for the first time in his three year career — went on to score 1,284 points (more points than his first two seasons combined) . . . passed the 1,000 assist mark for his career including a game high nine assists vs. Boston in crucial game #81 — now has 1,002 career assists and needs 43 more to reach tenth on the Bucks all-time list.

1985 Playoffs: Played a superb all-around game in the 1985 playoffs as the Bucks starting point-forward . . . led the Bucks in post-season playmaking passing for 7.6 assists per game — also contributed 15.3 ppg and 6 rebounds as well in his 37 minutes per playoff tilt . . . hit at a .511% clip from the floor in the second season —upped his production from the line hitting 31-38 (.816%) from the charity stripe vs. his regular season mark of .758% . . . led the Bucks in steals in the '85 playoffs taking 18 from the opposition to average 2.3 takes per tilt (also had 5 blocked shots for the third highest total on the club) . . . averaged 4.5 rebounds, 6.5 assists, and 14.8 ppg in the opening round vs. the Bulls — in the conference semifinals vs. the Sixers Paul upped that production to 7.5 rebounds, 8.8 assists, and 15.8 ppg in 39.5 minutes per effort . . . had his playoff scoring high in game #4 vs. the Sixers with 25 points . . . tied Oscar Robertson's Bucks playoff record for assists passing for 16 in game #2 vs. the Sixers . . . set a new Bucks record for steals in a playoff tilt with 6 in the deciding game #4 vs. the Bulls in Chicago — broke the old record of five held jointly by Quinn Buckner and Sidney Moncrief.

College: Voted to second team All-American by UPI and third team All-American by AP during senior year at the University of Tulsa . . . named Missouri Valley Conference Player-of-the-Year 1981-82 and was twice named to the All-MVC First team . . . was selected for five different all-star games: the Coaches' East-West game, the Athletes-in-Action game, the Pizza Hut Classic, the Aloha Classic and the Sertoma Charities game . . . led Tulsa to its two winningest seasons in history, 26-7 and the NIT Championship during the 1980-81 campaign and 24-6 and an NCAA tourney birth for the 1981-82 . . . paced the Golden Hurricanes with a 13.2 scoring clip . . . led the nation in steals with 96 during his junior year and responded with 95 thefts his senior season . . . set NIT record with six steals against UTEP and then topped that with seven against West Virginia . . . Pressey set or tied seven game and career records at Tulsa for steals . . . hit for 31 points vs. Oklahoma for a single game high . . . at the NIT, he thrilled the Madison Square Garden crowd when he drove, hung in mid-air and faked twice bringing the ball all the way around his body before slapping it to a teammate for an easy layup . . . added such honors as Sports Illustrated Player-of-the-Week, All-American selection by the United States Basketball Writers Association and National Association of Basketball Coaches.

Junior College: Led Western Texas Junior College to a 37-0 JUCO National title . . . Consensus All-American and touted as one of the five top JUCO transfers by Basketball Weekly . . . named MVP in national tournament . . . averaged 13.9 points, 7.9 rebounds, 5.0 assists, 3.7 steals and 1.6 blocked shots per game.

High School: Played two years at Richmond Wythe in Richmond, Virginia.

Personal: Graduated from Tulsa University with a degree in physical education . . . has six sisters and one brother . . . Paul and his wife Elizabeth are the parents of the 1½ year old Ashley Chavon.

For the 1984-85 season the Milwaukee Bucks missed 137 player games due to injury. Over the last eight seasons (since '77-78, Don Nelson's first full year as head coach), the Bucks have totaled 703 player games missed due to injury or illness, an average of 87.8 per season. Those figures can be compared to the Bucks rival in the Central Division, Detroit, who over the past seven seasons have totaled 803 plus games due to injury or illness, an average of over 114 player games missed each season. New York registered an all-time NBA high of 325 player games missed due to injury or illness during the 1984-85 season. By year, here is the Milwaukee breakdown:
1977-78 — 20, 1978-79 — 99 (Meyers missed entire season due to a bad back), 1979-80 - 52, 1980-81 — 41, 1981-82 — 106, 1982-83 — 163, 1983-84 — 84, 1984-85 — 137.

1984-85 STARTING LINEUPS

Through the 1984-85 season the Milwaukee Bucks were fortunate to have a great deal of stability in their starting five unit. In fact since we began keeping tabs on this particular piece of information back in the 1981-82 season, this marks the season of least adjustments. In 1981-82 the club ran through 18 different starting combos. For the 1982-83 season the Bucks totalled 163 player games missed due to injury and withstood 27 roster changes leading to 23 different starting lineups. For the 1983-84 season 23 different lineups began the 82 regular season games. During the 1983-84 season there were 84 missed games due to injury and 12 roster changes. And finally during the 1984-85 season the Bucks used just twelve different starting combinations. There were 137 player games missed due to injury and 14 roster changes.

The most frequent pairing in the manpower juggling act was Terry Cummings and Paul Pressey at forward, Alton Lister at center, with Craig Hodges and Sidney Moncrief at guard. That starting five compiled a 42-13 record, a winning percentage of .764%. The group first came together on December 5 following the December 1 airline incident in Washington that sidelined Mike Dunleavy for the balance of the season with a herniated disc in his lower back. Dunleavy had been the starting point guard until that juncture but was replaced by Hodges. The group with Hodges at guard (#6 below) was tops in both wins, losses and winning percentage (among those groups that saw more than two games of action together).

Not one player appeared in every starting lineup. Alton Lister and Paul Pressey came the closest having started in all but two regular season games. Lister and Pressey appeared in 10 of the 12 starting combinations, Cummings 9, Hodges and Moncrief six each. Mokeski 5, Dunleavy 4, Grevey 3, Davis 2, Fields and Pierce 1 each.

Here are the starting lineups and their records:

TALE OF THE TURNSTYLES

League turnstyles rotated at a record pace as 10,506,355 fans attended the 943 game regular season schedule in 1984-85 for an all-time record average attendance of 11,141. The total figure marked the second straight year the League has topped the 10 million plateau.

Through the first 17 years of the franchise, the Bucks have drawn a regular season total of 6,776,930 over 668 games for an average attendance of 10,145 or 93% capacity. The Bucks ranked 14th in attendance in the NBA for the second straight year in the 1984-85 season.

The best all-around season for attendance was in 1979-80 when the club set records in percent of capacity (.997%), total sellouts (39 of 41), and number of consecutive sellouts (38). The most fans drawn in one season and the best average per game were attained in 1980-81 (first season Arena capacity was 11,052) with a total of 448,336 or 10,936 average.

On November 30, 1983 when the Milwaukee Bucks faced the Denver Nuggets in the Milwaukee Arena, the six millionth fan passed through the Arena doors since the inception of the team in 1968. The Bucks enter the 1985-86 season just 223,070 fans shy of their seven millionth fan.

LOWEST DRAFT PICK TO PLAY FOR BUCKS

Mickey Davis was the Bucks seventh round draft pick out of Duquesne in 1972. That makes him the lowest Bucks draft choice to play for Milwaukee. The Bucks have had at least two players see action that were never drafted. They are Delmer Beshore and Charlie Criss.

SMITH A COMMON NAME AMONG BUCKS

The most often appearing surname on the Bucks all-time roster is Smith. There were five Smiths that pulled on a Bucks jersey including Don, Elmore, Greg, Robert, and Sam. Only Greg was drafted by the Bucks (fourth round).

LONG & SHORT OF IT

Randy Breuer at 7'3" is the tallest player to don a Bucks uniform while Charlie Criss at 5'8" is the shortest. Geff Crompton at 290 lbs. is the heaviest while Lloyd Walton at 160 lbs. is the lightest. The Bucks all-time roster lists five players at 7' or taller and three players at under 6'.

PERCENTAGE OF DRAFT PICKS

Of the 178 players the Bucks have tabbed from the collegiate ranks, 32 of them have actually seen action in a regular season or playoff game. That means only 18% of all players drafted by Milwaukee have played for the team.

MONCRIEF & CUMMINGS SELECTED TO ALL-STAR GAME

Sidney Moncrief and Terry Cummings represented the Bucks in the 35th Annual All-Star game in the Hoosier Dome at Indianapolis on February 10, 1985 before a record setting crowd of 43,146. Both players were selected by Eastern Conference coaches as reserves. It marked the fourth straight year that the Moncrief was selected for the mid-season classic, including a starting nod in 1984. Cummings made his debut as an NBA All-Star. The West beat the East 140-129 but Cummings led the East reserves with 17 points while adding 5 rebounds and Moncrief chipped in 8 points and 5 caroms.

BUCKS FRANCHISE RECORDS WIN #800

A nice Christmas present came early to the Milwaukee Bucks as they recorded the 800th regular season victory in the seventeen year history of the franchise by downing the Dallas Mavericks 110-96 in the Arena December 18, 1984. All five starters scored in double figures with Terry Cummings pouring in a game high 29 points.

SPORTSVUE SIGNS OFF A WINNER

The SportsVue Cable Network jointly owned by the Milwaukee Bucks and Milwaukee Brewers discontinued operations February 2, 1985. The joint venture began operations April 3, 1984 and telecast 192 events until its demise 10 months later. The network signed off a winner though as the Bucks came from behind at Portland to beat the Trail Blazers 115-95 and complete a perfect 6-0 victory tour of Western Conference foes, a feat unequalled in Bucks history. The win also extended the Bucks winning streak to a season high 11 games overall.

BUCKS WIN 10 STRAIGHT AT HOME TO START SEASON

The Bucks reeled off 10 straight home wins at the start of the season to set a franchise record for consecutive home wins at the start of a season in 1984-85. The all-time Club record for consecutive home wins is 17 (1/6/73 to 3/12/73) and over a two season span 25 (1/6/73 to 11/13/73 - 17 + 8).

THE BUCKS DO IT WITH Style

MILWAUKEE BUCKS ™

HEILEMAN'S
PURE GENUINE
Old Style

©1985, G. Heileman Brewing Co., La Crosse, WI

NO OTHER PREMIUM BEER IN AMERICA IS BREWED TO THE STANDARDS OF OLD STYLE.

To give Heileman's Old Style Beer the best balance of flavor, smoothness and drinkability, we brew every bottle and can with five special steps. Some breweries may adhere to one or two of these steps, but we know of no other major American brewery which incorporates all of them.

1. We brew Old Style with only naturally pure artesian brewing water, drawn from underground reservoirs millions of years old. This water is purer than the surface water commonly used by other breweries.
2. While most brewers use only domestic hops, we also use a generous supply of European hops.
3. We use a brewing process which allows carbonation to occur naturally.
4. Our brewing cycle takes nearly twice as long as what is considered acceptable by other breweries.
5. Our beer is fully "Kraeusened". It is a time-honored brewing process which adds smoothness and character. Today, only a handful of breweries in all the world Kraeusen their beer.

We believe when you try Old Style, you'll find it superior to the beer you may be drinking now. The reason is simple: no other premium beer in America is brewed with all the care, attention or quality ingredients of Heileman's Old Style.
